There is the buzzer. Only two minutes left in the game. The score stands at 21 to 17, as it has since the half. The opponent has both the lead and the ball. Thirty-seven yards from the end zone and a sure victory, the offense plans its third down play. The seconds tick away. There is the snap. The quarterback drops back and spots an opening. He completes a long pass to number 87 who storms the remaining nine yards to victory. For all practical purposes, the game has ended in a defeat for the Shamrocks.

The Shamrocks at that game are winners. Players, cheerleaders and fans all have it "Down Pat." The latter two know how to be loyal and optimistic. The former practice determination and sportmanship. To have something "down pat" means to understand or know how to do it from either practicing or setting down a pattern. This is not to say that the Shamrocks have losing down to a formula, but rather, they know how to give their utmost to keep trying.

This control over situations carries over into the everyday lives of the students. They create their own rough timetables for buses and trains. Freshmen form a mental map of the school. Upperclassmen have an idea of just how far they can go before a certain teacher reaches the breaking point. Faculty members know more about their pupils than the students know about themselves. Algebra actually becomes a little easier. Even tests can be conquered. Probably the best example, though, is the ingenuity with which Patsmen sell their stacks of raffle books.

Agreed, St. Patrick is not the "Harvard" of high schools, but when it comes to enjoying the clubs, teams, free time and friendships associated with high school, one can not help saying that the 1300 people that walk its halls have it "Down Pat."

We've got

STUDENT LIFE

Student Life speaks not of the life of a student, but of the spirit inside the student. The spirit that motivates the individual to participate in the out-of-school activities including dances and theatrical productions was enhanced by the events provided as part of the yearly routine, e.g.: retreats, masses and assemblies. The individual student leads a double social life, one scholastic and one private. The lively school social life started when St. Patrick originally opened and for over one hundred twenty years, it has been perfecting itself through the ideals of the students. As wine ferments over time, gaining its full flavor, so does our enthusiasm. Now, it has reached a level of the ideal, which allows us to say ...we've got student life "Down Pat."

Keeping in the Spirit of Things Intense determination turns into disappointment

Although the varsity was defeated in the homecoming game, team spirit was dominant throughout the entire extravaganza which took place on September 26th. A top performance was shown by Sean Lawlor who scored late in the second quarter, bringing an end to the fear of a shutout. Thus, the final score stood at St. Viator 41, St. Patrick 6.

Semi-formal take a new twist

The setting for the annual Semi-Formal Homecoming Dance was a typical gymnasium transformed into a beautiful, ballroom atmosphere dance floor. Ingenuity and creativity were key factors as the Student Council sponsored a memorable event. As students and their dates entered the gym on Friday, September 25th, they were both delighted and amazed at what they saw. The Student Council had previously announced that the dance, usually held at various banquet halls in the Chicago area, would be held in the gym to lower the price of the bids and to encourage more people to attend. Both goals were accomplished. At first, students were skeptical of the outcome, but the hard working dance committee organized a gala evening. A decorated, lowered ceiling, several strobe lights, enhanced table settings and the finesse of Bro. Ralph Heppe's preparations captivated all of the 125 couples that attended the event. Once again "Contagious" provided a variety of soft-rock dance music. Refreshments, including soda pop and snacks, were also in abundance. The unforgettable evening also included announcement of the Homecoming Queen, Senior Kathy Tucker, escorted by Senior Michael Altobelli.

Classmate competition makes homecoming a consuming adventure

Homecoming Week '82 took a few new twists. These new twists, spurred on by the Student Council retreat at Lewis University, added more excitement to the spirit-lifting week.

The sale of Shamrock Pride T-shirts entitled students who bought them to Grub Days on Tuesday and Wednesday, while all football and soccer players had a jersey day on Thursday. An Eat-a-thon was planned for the first time. It involved a wheelbarrow race across the gym floor, followed by pie eating, Coke chugging, and cracker eating contests. After consuming their allotments, the contestants picked up their batons, ran under a low net, and handed off the baton to their respective partners for a final sprint. Although Mr. Wilkens and the rest of the maintenance staff were not too excited with the results, the students seemed quite pleased. The annual Student-Faculty football game was held on Wednesday with the usual amount of foul play on the part of the faculty winners. The new ideas and events of the week added a refreshing twist to Homecoming making it a pleasurable and enjoyable week.

Hard work, incentive and dedication produce Remarkable Results

The Raffle Drive, conducted under the direction of Br. Nick Shumer, was a complete success with a turn-in of $73,450. This year's amount even surpassed last year's mark and surprised all who had hoped just to match it. Fierce homeroom competition existed on all levels, but nobody competed harder than Br. Richard's sophomore Room 309. Both Mr. Hayes and Mr. Troxell were hoping that this might be the year that they would claim the top honors, but to no avail. Even though both traded off the early lead, Br. Rich's homeroom sailed to an easy victory on the last return day with 651.24%

On the freshman level Mr. Collins faced a tough challenge from Mr. Zimmerman, but his homeroom led the entire school with a return of $2,422.30 for an average of $121.12 per man. His room also broke the drive records for the highest homeroom percentage (1111.2%), best first return day average ($52.40 and 424%) breaking another school record.

In the junior competition, Br. Thomas Dominic was up against some tough homerooms, but in the end his homeroom fought off the challenges from Mr. Muller's, Br. John Vietoris', and Mr. Renner's homerooms with an average of 444.75%

The senior department was taken easily by Mr. Kehoe who faced only token opposition from the homeroom of Mr. Venegoni. Mr. Kehoe's room turned in an average of 521.79%, but the real story in the senior department was Nick Howard's return of $830.00 setting another record for the drive.

This year's Raffle Drive was the best ever, and the drawing for the top prize of $2,500 took place during one of the Bingo nights instead of Las Vegas Night as previously scheduled.

Halloween weekend. Although the approximate 200 person audiences for the other nights were dwarfed by the Thursday crowds, the venture proved a financial success.

Mr. Nelson tried many new things this year. While John Cichon played intermission music on the piano, Tom Brady and Scott Schubert announced the acts with a short gunfight skit. The stage was moved from the east wall to the middle of the gym to utilize the bleachers for better sound and easier viewing. To solve the technical problem of building staircases to the second floor and the basement, the crew built ramps leading into the aisles. Not only were the ramps a practical solution, but they also got the audience involved.

The roles of Abby and Martha Brewster, the mercy killers, were assumed by Michelle Chapuis and Louis Kross. Jim Young and Elizabeth Schaeffer played the parts of Rev. Dr. and Elaine Harper. The Brewster brothers, Mortimer, Teddy,

Liturgies reinforce student Values

St. Patrick High School has always emphasized religion as being a great part in everyone's education and everyday lives. The St. Patrick Campus Ministry directed by Br. Leo Weidner, offers the student body many opportunities to gather in the gym and to celebrate in receiving Holy Eucharist.

On September 3rd, the mass of the Holy Spirit was offered, to start off a new school year. On November 1st, Father Stan Rataj, from St. Ferdinand Parish, celebrated All Saints Day Mass. On November 24th, the students gave thanks to God in the annual Thanksgiving Mass for the many good gifts they have received. Finally, on December 8th Father Mudd and Father Darrow helped to celebrate the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

Father Steve Mudd talks about receiving gifts and offering thanks during the Jr/Sr. Thanksgiving mass.

Father Stan Rataj reads an inspiring Gospel during the All Saints Day mass on November 1st.

Father Robert Darrow blessed the student body before sending them forth to carry the message of Christianity.

During such masses the student body was divided into two sections; Sr./Jr. and Frosh./Soph. with each group attending the celebration at different times. A decorative altar, dim lights and a tranquil atmosphere provided a perfect setting for prayer and reflection. Students were engaged in prayer, communion, silent reflection, and were provided with the opportunity to participate in spiritual hymns, and share the religious experience as a community. Thus, by establishing patterns and practicing their faith, the students began developing a religious system that is "Down Pat."

Providing a meditative atmosphere, Mr. Timm and Ed Stechman vocalize "Sing To The Mountain."

Spirit Finally Appears

Students catch the fading school spirit

Once again the St. Patrick Student Council sponsored its annual Spirit Week which ran from January 31 to February 4. Throughout the entire week, many activities were planned to allow the student body to show its interest in our school.

On Monday, a big crowd showed up at the Axle for an enjoyable evening at the Roller Skating "Blizzard Blast." Over 400 students, including those from several neighboring girl schools, put on their wheels and rolled to organ and rock music. On Tuesday students were encouraged to participate in a Grub Day provided they wore a jersey or shirt showing Shamrock Pride. There was also a new event — the Tug-o-War. All four levels of homerooms competed in this preliminary event, which proved to be both competitive and pleasurable. On Thursday the finals of this event were held and Freshmen H.R. 204, Sophomore H.R. 106, Junior H.R. 105, and Senior H.R. 108 showed their strength and led their teams to victory. Also, the teachers and students were at it again this year with the all-time-favorite Student/Faculty Basketball Game. The disappointed students were defeated by the hard playing teachers. The end of the week brought a successful Spirit Week to a close with a Recognition Assembly. This gave recognition and honor to the hard working students involved in various winter sports and activities.

Spirit Week was held that week because that weekend St. Pat's three major winter sport teams competed. (The basketball team played Marist on Friday night and St. Joe's on Saturday night.) Also, on Saturday the Swimming and Wrestling Teams competed in conference tournaments.

The student Body showed great support at the games and throughout all of Spirit Week. It was the students support that not only encouraged the Shamrocks to victory, but it also gave meaning to Spirit Week.

Guaranteed Help for a Grateful Multitude

The 9th annual blood drive collected an astonishing 250 pints, just 14 pints shy of the all time 264 pint record set in the 1982 drive. Mr. Bert Welker and the members of the Medical Careers Club showed outstanding efforts in persuading the student body to give blood. On February 28th, under the coordination of Mr. Bert Welker, twenty-one members, including seven girls from Notre Dame, performed several comedy skits portraying the need for blood in our community. Daily visitors from the blood drive committee did an excellent job of recruiting blood donors by giving convincing speeches and persuading the uncertain. From the Jr./Sr. assemblies in late February to the blood drive, approximately 850 previous blood donors were contacted by phone. These telephones were operated by French and Spanish classes and by the 70 members of the Medical Careers

Club. Neighborhood McDonald's donated orange juice. Also, a more than adequate supply of cookies was donated by the students and faculty. The cafeteria staff provided coffee and lunches for the Medical Careers Club student workers. The Student Council helped finance the drive with the complete support of the administration. The wrestling room proved to be a perfect spot for the staff from the United Blood Service, who were assisted by the members of the club. One of the results of the St. Patrick blood drive is that all members of the school community including students, faculty members, and their families became members of the Blood Assurance program of the United Blood Services.

Retreats Give Students Some Time to Think

The retreat program, under the supervision of Br. Leo Wiedner, director of the Campus Ministry, allowed both upper and underclassmen to experience spiritual growth. Each respective class enjoyed a retreat to help better themselves.

Freshmen went on retreat according to their religion classes every Tuesday during the second semester. Along with Br. Leo, Br. George Fowley, and 3 or 4 upperclassmen counselors, the freshmen voyaged out to Cabrini Contact Center in DesPlaines for a day of recreation and soul searching. The day gave them a chance to break away from everyday classes.

Sophomores followed the same retreat format as their younger counterparts but delved more deeply into spiritual growth. Freshmen and sophomores of all faiths were required to make a retreat.

During the morning prayer, Chris Kopeck and Bob Glascott reflect on their stay at Plano.

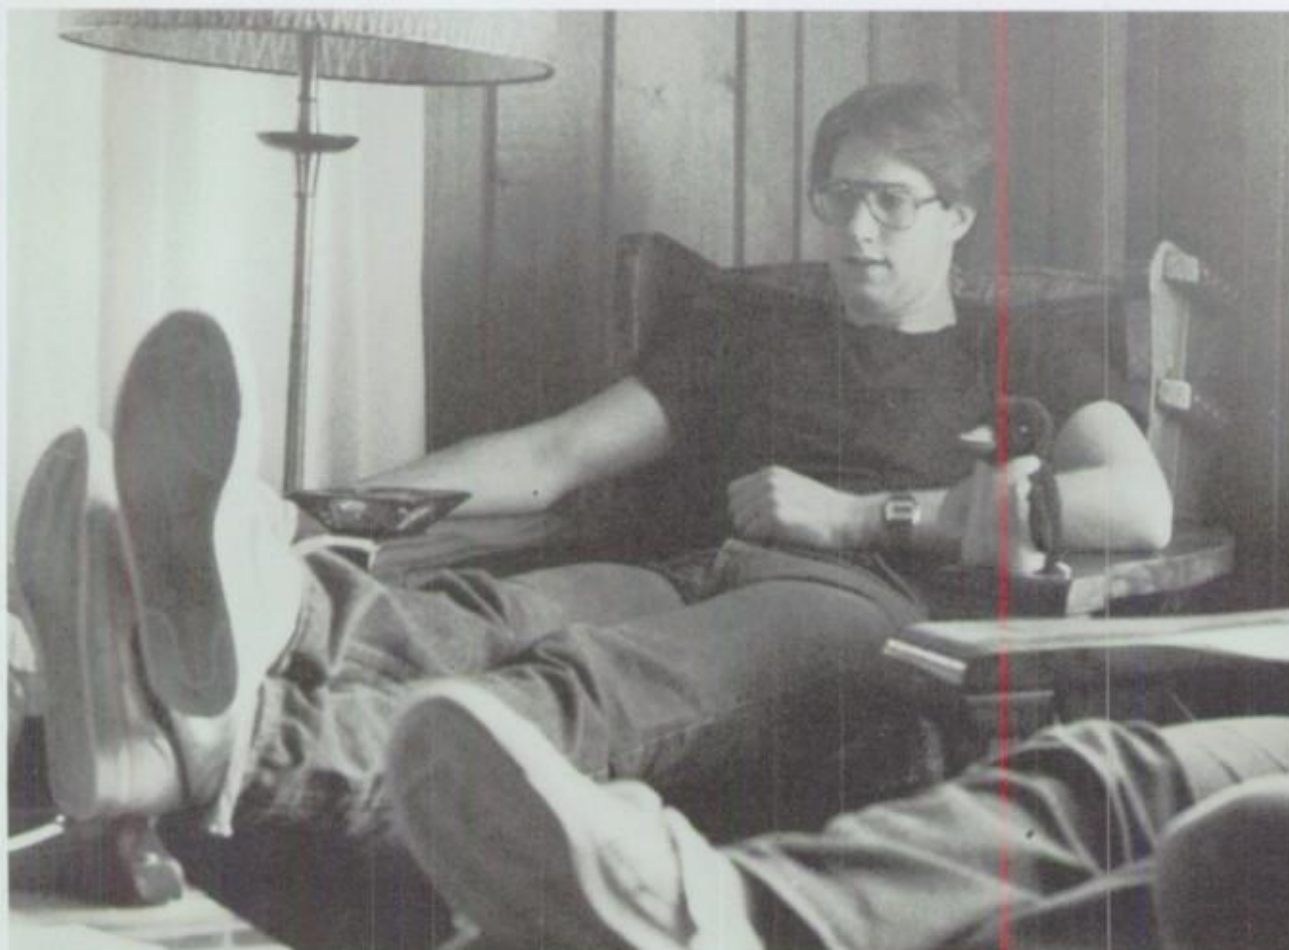

Eric Rodriguez, Nerlin Gutierrez, Brian Jackson, Steve Vega, Mike Poremba, and John Rice draw representations of God, themselves, and others at their freshmen retreat.

Br. Leo Weidner starts a discussion on this year's freshmen retreat film "William" with Mr. Hammond's religion class.

Junior Tony Halaska answers as best he can the question on the card handed him by a member of his small group.

As they finish their lunch, the seniors receive clean-up instructions from small group leader Dan Sheridan.

Junior retreat allowed the "young men" to experience meditation and maybe the first real communication with God. Juniors travelled out to LaSalle Manor in Plano, Illinois, in groups of about forty in order to really feel retreat life. Along with the counselors, Br. Leo, and another faculty member, juniors spent two days trying to get to know themselves and God better.

The senior retreat was a voluntary excursion to LaSalle Manor where the matured upperclassmen culminated their retreat experience. Twenty-two loyal men voyaged to Plano on October 4th and 5th. In the co-ed retreat, the men and women learned more about themselves in this atmosphere. With this final voyage into themselves as Shamrocks, the seniors completed the St. Patrick retreat experience.

Taking a moment out from the discussion sessions, junior Chris Gierszewski goes for a meditative hike on the frozen lake.

Chorus Provides Students With a Harmonious

Break From the Monotony

What is Christmas? The estimated 300 people who arrived at Wright Junior College on December 19th to see our concert chorus found out. With the help of Madonna High School, the production Christmas Is ... was joyful to listen to. Songs like Christmas is, Both Sides Now, Joyus Christmas, and many others were heard throughout the auditorium.

It was on Sunday May 1, 1983 at 7:30 p.m. that the gym once again became a concert hall. The air was filled with the sounds of spring from the voices of our chorus. The last eight concerts were either at Wright College, Madonna High School or Good Counsel High School. At last they were home again. With the chorus almost doubled in size from the first semester,

Mr. David Hotek began directing. The songs were ones of love ("Your Song"), national pride ("Born To Be Free"), and pure fun ("Song Sung Blue"). Their guest again for the Spring Concert was Madonna High School under the direction of Mrs. Jankiewicz. The people who attended the Spring Concert were treated to a number by twelve of the best charoleers from both groups. The twelvetet sang "Somewhere Down the Road" by Barry Manilow. The six vocalists were seniors: Dave Koga, Ken Crimaldi, Jeff Siegfried, Mark Charneske, Jim Marcus and Tony Halaska.

Amid the colorful, festive decorations at the Brickyard, The Chorus adds to the holiday atmosphere.

The combined Madonna and St. Patrick choruses sing "My Spirit Rejoices" at the spring concert.

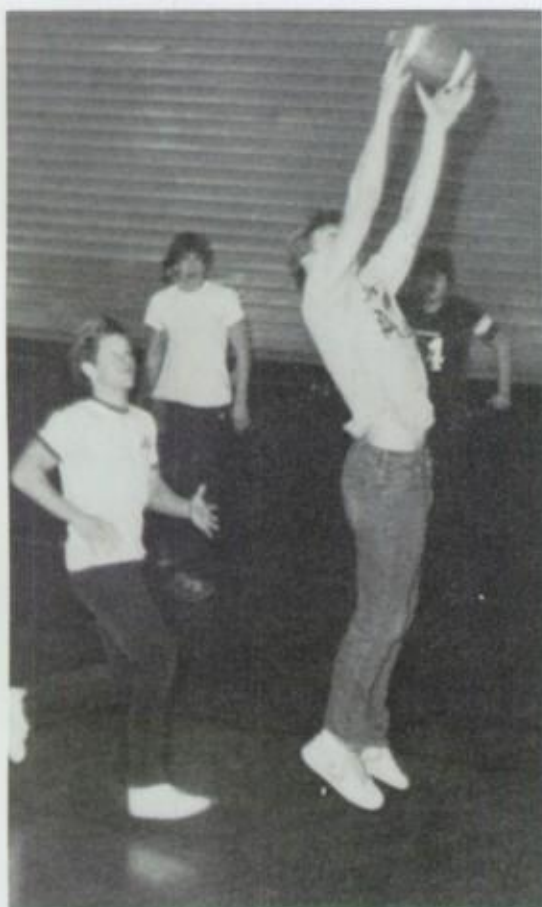

At the "Joyful Sounds of Spring" concert, the Chorus fills the gym with both music and people with their first selection, "It's Hard To Be Humble."

Mr. Hotek leads the Chorus members as they come to the culmination of their year-long efforts.

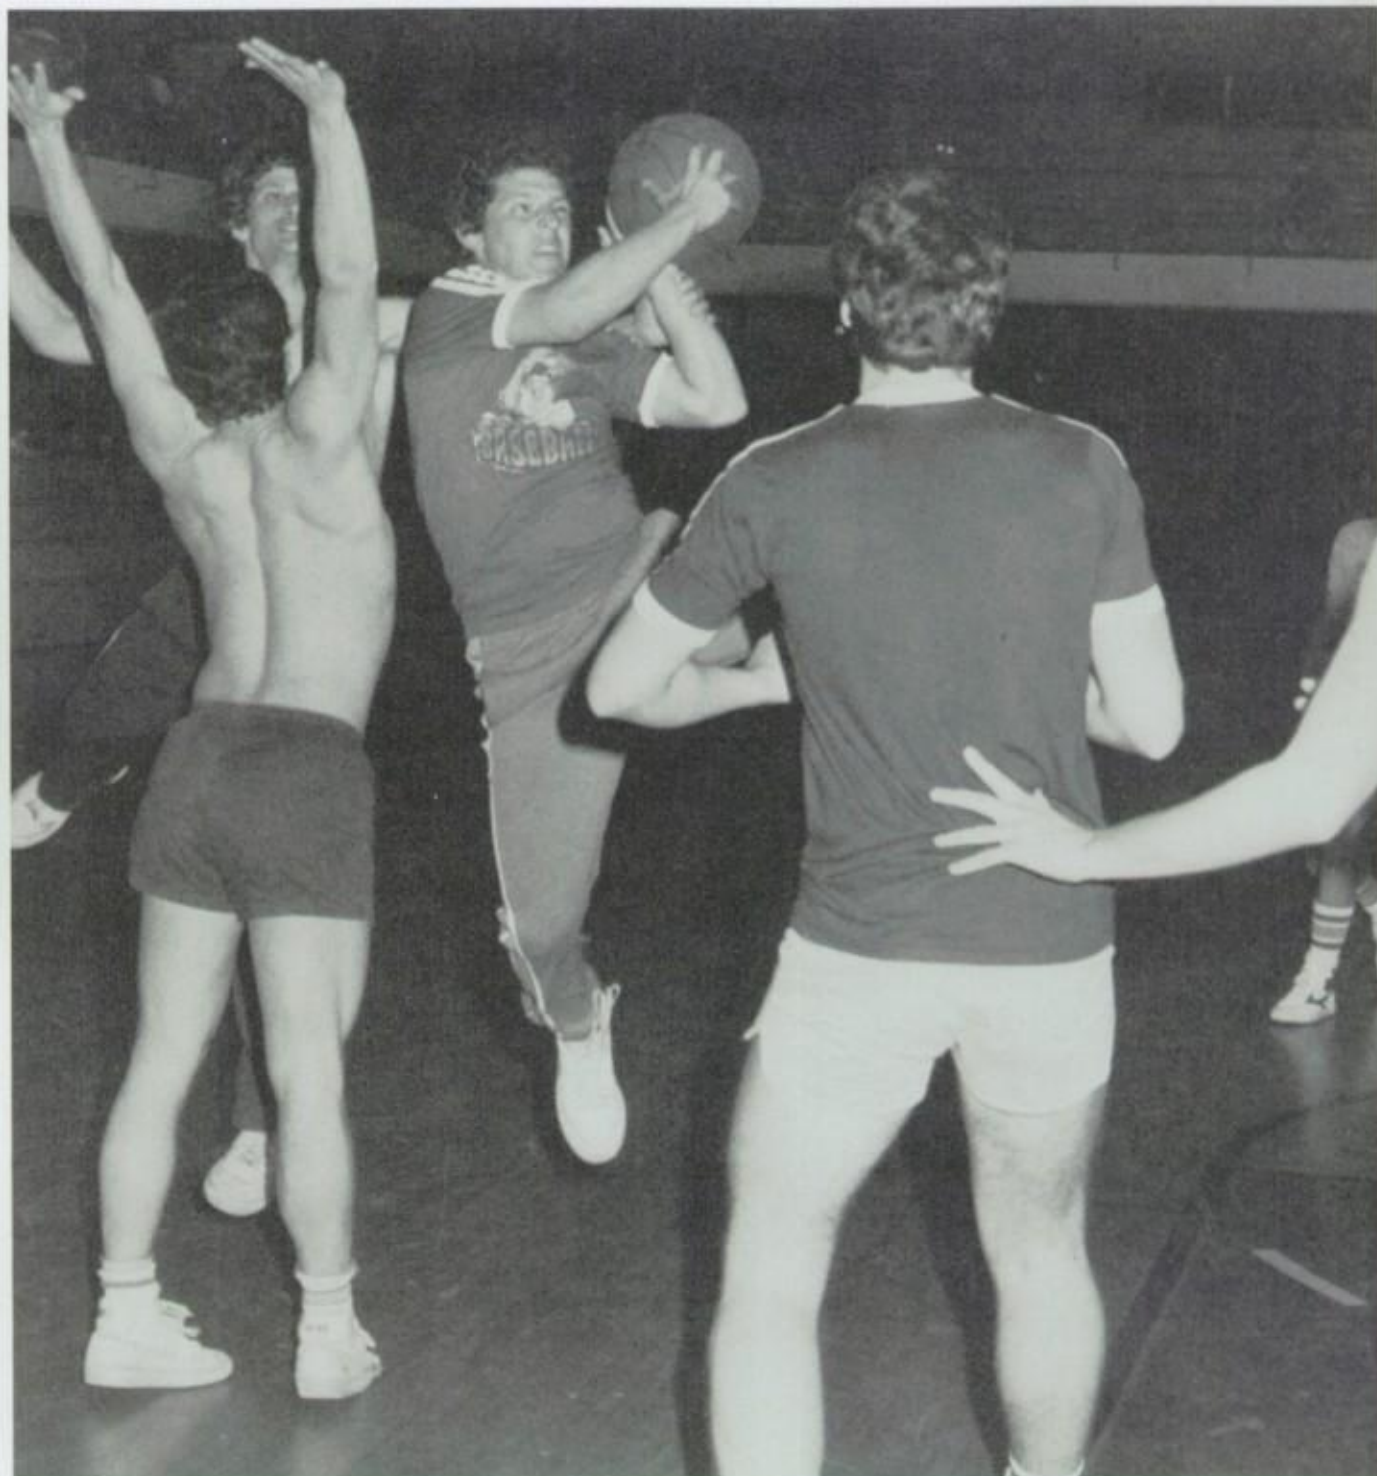

In this, the first of three concerts this year with Madonna, the singers go through another Christmas Carol from their long list.

In a valiant, but delayed effort, Don Cox attempts to prevent a senior touchdown. As Mike Dunham goes up for the shot, Jerry Kosmetatos and teammates go all out to prevent a scoring basket.

New Administration and New Rules Make for a

Year of Change

The intramural program took on a new meaning this year. The first major change to occur concerned the moderation of the program. The administration felt that four games daily was too much for any one teacher to supervise and that two moderators would solve this problem. As a result, Mr. Peter Willert, head of the freshman-sophomore division, and Mr. Yale Corcoran, head of the junior-senior division, both took on the job with only two games to moderate daily.

A second change came about in the basketball portion of the program with the use of two half courts instead of a full court allowing for a longer season.

Final changes with game rules and regulations topped off a completely revised intramural program.

For the Juniors March and April Are Two Months Filled With Anticipation and Joy

Although Graduation and Senior Prom were the headline events this year, the juniors were not to be daunted. In early November came the ring assembly, the event starting the snowballing chain reaction that would become their best memory of St. Pat's yet. For the rest of that week the school was flooded with small red plastic ring size bands. The most popular words were Lustrium, Aurora, gold, and "What are you getting?" Throughout January and February, Josten's representative, Mr. Jack Brennan, came to the school four times. Whenever he sat in the lobby, there was always a line of juniors waiting to make another payment on their rings. In early March when the rings were delivered, the anticipation skyrocketed until homeroom teachers distributed the rings to the students as their parents looked on proudly. When everybody went down to the cafeteria for some refreshments, all students could do was stare at each other's rings. At that joyous moment, the prom was the farthest thing from their minds.

At the Ring Mass, Fr. Pat Cecil blesses the rings the juniors are about to receive.

Parents, students, readers, singers, and teachers rise as Fr. Pat Cecil recited the Gospel.

Although the ring mass was the talk of the school for a week or two, the junior prom soon took its place in the limelight. With 115 bids and 105 couples attending, the prom exceeded that preceeding event in popularity. After each family had taken snapshots, the couples went off to Thirteen Colonies Banquet hall in River Grove where they received their bids, a mug for the boy and a brandy snifter and a long stemmed white carnation for the girl. When the band Encore started up at 8:00, most of the people were having their portraits taken, but the dance floor was soon filled anyway. Playing chiefly recent rock songs, Encore also played a handful of slow-dances, among them, the dance's theme song, "Truly." About a half hour after the garter dance the the band wrapped things up for the night with an elongated version of "Celebration." Even though it looked as if the night would end on a sour note because of late torrential rains, many juniors had midnight reservations at posh restaurants. After an hour or two of fancy dining, the evening no longer felt as young nor the rain as bad.

Gene Major and his date engage in everybody's favorite, the slow dance.

As they walk in the doors at Thirteen Colonies, Mark Pusateri and his prom date receive the carnation, bids, brandy snifter, and mug.

At eight o'clock, Encore takes the stage and plays a fast-paced rock song to warm up the dancers.

Thespian Society Makes Maritime Mayhem a Fabulous First

The St. Patrick Thespian Society once again presented a theatrical extravaganza. For three days on the weekend of May 20, the comedy "Mr. Roberts" was presented. Written by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan, the play centered around Lt. J. G. Douglas Roberts, an ambitious young officer who longed for a better way to serve his country than as cargo officer aboard the AK601 in the backwaters of the Pacific. The play added a unique variety to the society's already long list of production.

While Ensign Pulver tries to convince Lt. Ann Girard that he is first officer, she is temporarily distracted by overhearing a crewmember's bet as to why she is nicknamed "Red Label."

When Mr. Roberts reads his latest transfer letter, Doc reprimands him for his strong language and his will to join the "real" war.

On liberty night at Elysium, Lindstrom's and Mr. Roberts' eyes bug out when they see Dolan coming on board with Rear Admiral Wentworth's "goat."

Top: Wiley and Stefanowski enjoy another day of scraping the rust from the deck. Center: Suddenly Insigna finds something else to do. Bottom: Scant seconds later, the entire crew is gawking at the nurses' showers on the island.

When Mr. Roberts comes to complain about the cancelled liberty, the captain shows him the commander's cap that he hopes to earn and makes fun of Mr. Roberts' college phrases like "disharmony aboard this ship."

For a V-E Day celebration, Ensign Pulver sets off a firecracker in the laundry room and comes back to his room as living proof of finishing something he started.

"Mr. Roberts" was an original in many ways. First, it was the first Spring Play in recent years not to have a Shakespearean theme. Mr. Jack Nelson, the director, decided it was time for a change. Also, this year's play had more juniors in the cast than in any other play in recent years. Cast members included seniors Pat Fioretto (Doc), Tony Palmisano (Ensign Pulver), Scott Oken (the Captain), Paul Iacopetti (Stefanowski), Kevin Sullivan (Shore Patrolman), Bob Harig (Shore Patrolman), Gary Nowak (Military Policeman), Stan Andreakis (Chief Johnson), Abdon Pallash (Dowdy), and Scott Schubert (Sailor). Juniors in the cast were Ron Barne (Mr. Roberts), Ted Scislowski (Insigna), Joe Pusateri (Mannion), Mike McKewin (Lindstrom), Adam Tarczynski (Wiley), Bob Mendes (Schlemmer), and Jim Marcus (Dolan). Other cast members included Mr. Sienkiewicz (Assistant Director and Squawk Box), Kathy Sullivan (Lt. Ann Girard), Kevin's sister, a sophomore from Resurrection High School, and their dog, Bandit ("Property of").

Seniors Discover the "Fountain of Youth"

To celebrate the end of four years of laborious study, Mr. Rudy Presslak and Mr. Jerry Kehoe organized a prom for the graduating class. The formal occasion was set at the luxurious Arlington Park Hilton on May 14th at 8:00 P.M. To begin the evening, a meal was served consisting of a fruit cup, salad, prime rib, beans and potatoes, and a neopolitan dessert. Following the meal there was music provided by a group named Kicks. When the group refrained for a break, Jade, performed. By doing this, the effect of continuous music was created. All 190 couples that came to the Jimmy Durante ballroom enjoyed themselves, for the excitement and joy could easily be seen on the faces of the dancers. The theme for the prom, Forever Young, was given by Mr. Rudy Presslak, which was seen in the graduation program, was a type of prayer and ended "May you build a ladder to the stars, And climb up every rung, May you stay Forever Young . . ."

Before the music starts Joe Pacion and his date Hilary Kurth enjoy a period of quiet conversation.

Ceremony and Mass Make a Great New Combination

The annual senior awards assembly was cancelled this year for two reasons. The first reason was that the administration of St. Pat's felt that the seniors could not afford to lose the class time. The second reason was that they also believed it might be nicer if the parents were present. The 1983 senior awards ceremony was then incorporated into the annual Baccalaureate Mass on May 28.

Four Years Culminate in The Last Hurrah

The end of four years is marked by a prom and an official ceremony. The official 122nd annual Commencement exercises were held on May 29th at 10:00 a.m. in the Auditorium Theatre.

The morning began with the procession of graduates followed by the National Anthem which was played by Br. Ralph Heppe F.S.C. and sung by Mr. David Hotek. The invocation was then given by Br. David Galinski F.S.C. and after his speech all of the members of the graduating class were inducted into the Alumni association. The induction was performed by the Honorable John J. Hogan, class of 1934, just before Br. Kenneth Gillund gave his congratulations; Miguel Vian, Valedictorian, presented his speech about the memories he had and that we should look to the future. At this point each graduate was presented with two certificates: the diploma and a certificate of appreciation to the parents. Immediately following the graduation, the Shannon Rovers' pipe band played the School Song and Auld Lang Syne 'till all the graduates and faculty left the theatre.

Speaking to the senior class at the beginning of the ceremony, Br. David Galinski F.S.C. gives the invocation.

Keeping up with the pace, Mr. Charles Schmidt hands William Coll's diploma to Mr. Kokosinski for presentation.

At the end of the graduation the Shannon Rovers play the school song, while the faculty proceeds out.

We've Got

ORGANIZATIONS

St. Patrick High School had, as one of its main assets, an atmosphere which had prodded students to seek out their individual talents and interests. The final line between academics and the pursuit of individuality was the small organization, a club. Clubs varied in size and purpose, some were loosely knited, some more restricted, but all were distinctive, and all were an integral part of St. Pats. Because of the teamwork developed by these groups, we've got organizations "Down Pat."

Leaving the Past Behind

Overcoming Slight Setbacks, Student Council Has Productive Year

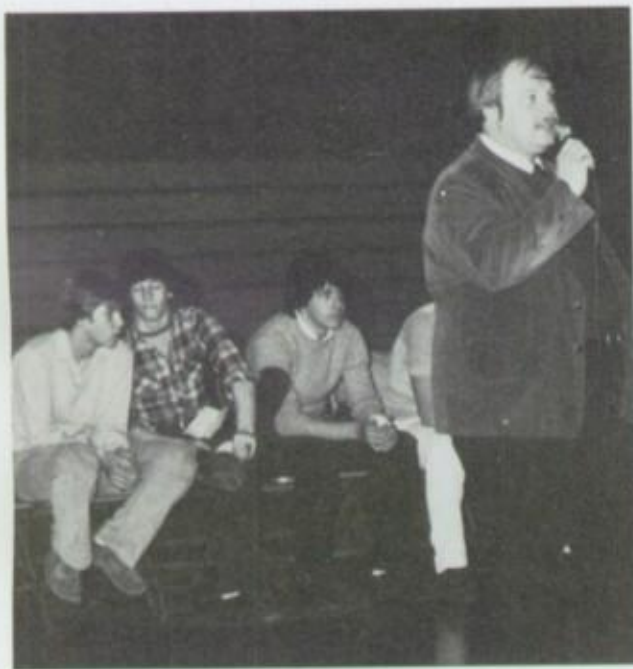

While working its way through a number of controversies, the Student Council pulled off a variety of successful events this year. Excluding the B'zz Rock Concert, all of the events scheduled on the S.C. calendar turned out to be enjoyable, not to mention profitable, ventures.

The year started with work on the annual Homecoming Week. A meeting at Plano was held to discuss plans for the week, which included the selling of "Shamrock Pride" tee-shirts which entitled the wearer to two grub days during the week. For the first time an Eat-a-thon was held in which contestants from each homeroom in their respective grade levels ran through an obstacle course which included a number of stops where they ate large amounts of different foods. The annual Student-Faculty football game was held, and as usual the faculty embarrassed the students. On Friday the annual Semi-Formal was held in the gym for the first time, making it less expensive for the students and more successful for the S.C.

Other events held by the S.C. were the fall Roller Skating Party, the B'zz Rock Concert, Spirit Week (which included a tug-of-war between H.R.s), and the winter Roller Skating Party, which was the most successful in recent years. Although there was much discussion on other aspects of the S.C., they pushed forward and produced an enjoyable calendar of events for the students.

NHS Offers Students an Opportunity for Honor Through Service

The National Honor Society/National Junior Honor Society was yet another of the service-oriented clubs on campus last year. Members met every Wednesday at 7:30 in Room 13 to discuss new and other business. Some of their volunteer duties were the following: ushering for school-sponsored events, doing research on candidates for NHS Merit Awards, tutoring, decorating the lobby on Christmas, and, although it was cancelled in the middle of the year, substituting for missing faculty when the regularly scheduled substitute could not.

Prior to receiving his NHS cape which was to be worn to Graduation, Graduate Status Member Giovanni Giannotti shakes Mr. Quinn's hand at the induction. At one of the many weekly Wednesday morning meetings, Secretary Mike McKewin takes minutes.

Aside from their regular tasks, the NHS also participated in two gym nights, a picnic with the Notre Dame NHS, ushering for Teacher's Institute Day at Resurrection High School with their NHS, and planning the end of the year induction ceremony. The ceremony consisted of the announcement of the new officers, the presentation of the Opportunity Awards and some Merit Awards, and a candle lighting ceremony involving all 79 inductees.

Thespians Break a Leg and Make a Showing

Troupe 1279 of the Thespian Society, moderated by Mr. Jack Nelson, treated the St. Patrick community to three theatrical extravaganzas.

Arsenic and Old Lace was presented in late fall. With the help of a newly constructed portable stage, the actors were able to add many new aspects to their roles. Four performances were put on including one for area eighth graders.

An added attraction this year was the Shakespearean Festival. The festival, organized mostly by Pat Fioretto, celebrated Shakespeare's birthday with a special newspaper, a trivia contest, and a videotape of famous Shakespearean scenes and soliloquies performed by juniors and seniors. At the end of the celebration, six new members were inducted into the society.

In Members, Speakers, and Pints, Club Finds

Strength in Numbers

Rising to be one of the most active organizations in the school, the Medical Careers Club began the year with a roaring start, functioning with the help of seventy members.

Membership was made up of an equal portion of freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors and, also ten active members of Notre Dame Girls' High School Honors Biology Program, who were all interested in pursuing some type of medical career opportunity.

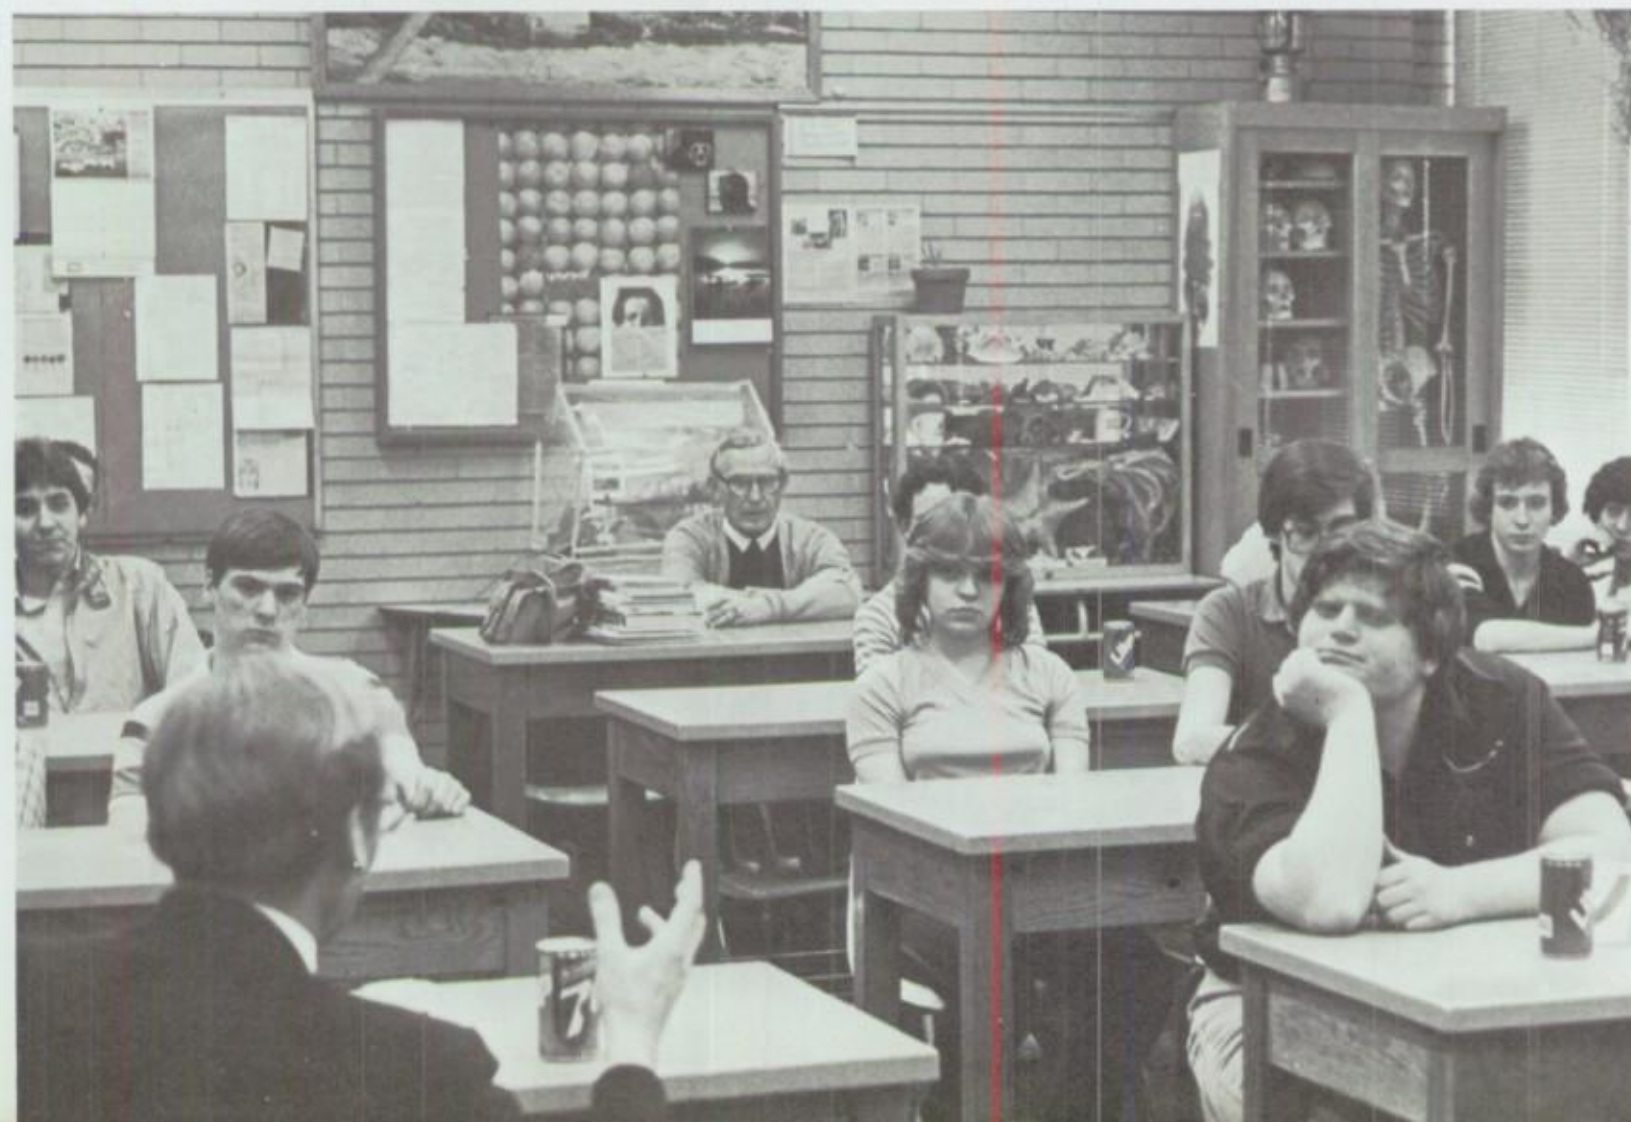

The meetings, which were held casually in room 306, revolved around 20 speakers through the year who volunteered their time and talent to educate members of a particular career choice. Some of these speakers distributed handouts on a particular career opportunity or showed slides and/or films to the members.

In addition to the weekly meetings, the club also sponsored many events which included: its annual Christmas party and the 9th successful blood drive which collected 250 pints.

Service With a Smile

Parents Club Does a Necessary Task in School Service

The main function of the Parents' Club was service and fund raising. The most popular money maker, bingo, was held every Tuesday night at 7:00. The second most popular and most profitable was the Las Vegas Nights. This year, however, because of a police crackdown on gambling, the October 15th and 16th Las Vegas Nights had to be cancelled at an estimated loss of 100,000 dollars. On April 15th and 16th, because a new ruling had not yet been passed, the Parents Club held a Spring Festival instead. The two were essentially alike except for the fact that the Spring Festival did not have horse racing and slot machines, games for which the renting company received a percentage of the profits. As a result of the October controversy, the Association of (predominantly) Catholic Parents' Clubs was founded here at St. Patrick. Each month, members of each of 150 schools got together for a meeting.

Along other lines, was a long list of events and services. Near the end of the year, the club sponsored a semi-formal dinner for the bingo workers and a party for the Spring Festival workers. Throughout the year, some of the 500 active members served refreshments at such occasions as open houses, the incoming Freshmen Breakfast, parents' tours, and the Junior Ring Mass. Holidays, being times of celebration, the club held both a St. Valentines Day Sweetheart Dance and a St. Patrick's Day Corned Beef and Cabbage Dinner. Probably the most important, but least used service, however, was the assurance fund to pay the remaining high school tuition of any student whose "bread winning" parent passed away.

Daily Practice

Enhances Performances

The Concert Chorus, directed by Mr. David Hotek, enchanted St. Pat's with the Christmas and Spring Concert. Meeting daily during zero period, the chorus prepared for the concerts.

The Christmas Concert, held in the Wright College Auditorium, signaled the beginning of the most joyful season of the year. Along with the Madonna High School Chorus, the spirit of Christmas descended upon the audience through song.

The Spring Concert helped bring in the season of happiness with songs like "Morning Has Broken" and "Tomorrow" which captivated the gym audience.

Besides our concerts, the chorus also attended concerts at Madonna High school with their chorus. Members had a busy schedule to follow through the entire year.

After Two Years, Right to Life Club Is Still

Protecting the Defenseless

In its second year of existence, the St. Patrick Right to Life Club has shown to be probably one of the most active organizations in the school. Every Monday the club met to discuss the moral aspects of abortion, how to educate students about the dangers of abortion, or listened to pro-life speakers. Aside from these weekly meetings, the club attended pro-life marches, conventions, campaigned for pro-life candidates, counseled at abortion clinics every Saturday, and sponsored a pro-life workshop at Loyola University where many students from all over the Chicagoland area were instructed on how to start pro-life clubs at their own schools.

Art Club Provides Freedom of Expression in a Variety of Forms

Any student who had any interest at all in things artistic had the opportunity to join a club just about custom made for him — the Art Club. Contrary to possible popular opinion, the Art Club was a not a group of people that would meet each Tuesday morning at 8:00 simply to "draw things." Although most of their work took place in the first semester, the largest activity, the 4th annual Art Contest, took place in the spring with the help of administrative judging. In the first half of the year, Gary Manning designed the Christmas Card that was sent to all the students over the holidays. The club also created posters and t-shirt transfers for the fall play. Students buying "Arsenic and Old Lace" shirts were entitled to a grub day. Opening to anything artistic, the club had a viewing of two short films and an animation demonstration by amateur filmmaker Andy Openlander, a sophomore here at St. Pat's.

Shamrocks Use Computers to Work Toward the Future

The computer club, under the direction of Mr. Albert, investigated the complicated area of computers on a weekly basis. With the help of guest speakers such as Mr. Peter Katsikas and Mr. John Kolman, members gained an understanding of what computers are, how they work, and how to get the most out of them. The club was a member of the American Computer Science League (ACSL) which allowed it to compete, by the use of tests, on a national scale with other schools. The members were administered an in-class and take-home test that dealt with the different types of computer languages. The club has done very well in this competition over the past years. Although the club was small in membership, a large amount of knowledge was obtained by the members.

Chess Club Ends Season Just Short of Checkmate

The Chess Club moderated by Brother Kenneth Gillund F.S.C., is a popular sport in which, to take part, you only have to know the basic moves. Key players were David Yankee, Mark Vaccaro, and Miguel Paz. The fifteen members meet in room 202 after school to test their skills and strategies and to compete among themselves for team selection. The club was a member of the Chicago High School Chess Conference and had a record of six and two which put them in second place. Dave Yankee, in speaking about the educational quality of chess, said that besides being fun, chess is a terrific aid in learning logic and common sense.

Practice, Experience, and Dedication Bring Unnoticed Victory

The Math Club, a rather underrated club here at St. Pats, was very successful this year. The four grades met on separate days each week to practice for such tests as the NSML (North Suburban Math League), the Archdiocese High School Math Contest, and the Santa Clara Math Contest. Throughout the year, each level took some of the six ATPAC's (Atlantic-Pacific Math Contests) and Illinois Math League Test's held after school each month. Among Chicago Area schools, our team placed third in the ILML. In the AHSME, a test taken in the cafeteria by club members and junior and senior honors math students, Paul Iacopetti and Dave Yankee advanced to the AIME invitational math exam in which they received above average scores. In the Third annual Illinois State Regionals, Joe Tozer and John Leonard came in second in pairs and Dave Yankee advanced to the state finals where he tied for second. In the Santa Clara Contest, Paul Iacopetti finished in the top ten percent. Finally in the archdiocesan competition, our team came in third. For all their hard work and award-winning efforts, the Math Club deserved a lot more recognition than they received.

Competing in the State Math Contest, Dave Yankee fights for a place in the "Top 10."

Language Clubs Add Some Spice to Life

A small part of the academic program, here at St. Pat's, was the Language Clubs. Language clubs were organized outside the class to arouse the student's interest in a specific language. Language Clubs consisted of the French Club moderated by Mrs. Schnell, the German Club moderated by Mr. Stark, and the Spanish

Honor Society moderated by Br. John Blease.

Activities planned by the French club were: the International Christmas Festival, the International Film Festival, a gym night with the German Club and many trips to French Restaurants. Along with their other activities the German Club arranged field trips such as ski trips, a Great America outing, and many German movies. Not only were they active but very competitive. Also active in planning events was the Spanish Honor Society. They planned trips to Spanish plays, restaurants, etc.

Hard Work and Devotion

Fellow photography club members, Joe Kaiser, Chris Gierszewski, Lester Tryba and Denny Correa listen to Michael Yaneck's explanation of photocybernetic features.

The St. Patrick Photo Club provided pictures for the Shamrock, the Green and Gold, the Public Relations Department, and the Athletic Department. The club had a membership of about 25 members who met weekly in the Art Room to view slide presentations from the Eastman Kodak Company and Arizona State University. Afterwards they met in the adjoining photo lab under the close supervision of Br. John Blease and Head Photographer Mike Marasco. Members attended all sporting events and developed and printed thousands of pictures this past year. Many times the work continued through the evenings and into the weekends. The loyalty and dedication of the club's members made it possible to turn out the quality pictures found throughout the school and this book.

Additional Knowledge Provides Increased Service

The television club received many amateur and professional broadcasting experiences this year. Under the moderation of Mr. Paul Quinn, the T.V. club held weekly Thursday morning meetings in room 13. At these meetings, upcoming sophomore basketball videotapings, studio maintenance and basic playbacks were assigned to the 18 young enthusiastic broadcasters. Along with this, the club used live broadcasting equipment during two open house demonstrations, and the taping of Mr. Charles Schmidt's curriculum presentation, the Shakespearean festival, and an NHS promotional tape.

The T.V. club also had an opportunity to view professional broadcasting techniques upon visiting the WBBM, WLS, and Sportsvision studios.

Final activities of the T.V. club included many hours before, during, and after school playing tapes for given classes and clubs, such as Dr. Who tapes for the T.L.A., and academic tapes and movies for classes throughout the school day.

Through Many Fact-Filled Pages, Green and Gold Staff

Keeps Up With a Changing School

The 1982-1983 Green and Gold grew in both confidence and knowledge. Although they had the incredible task of improving their previous efforts, the staff members diligently produced eight successful issues filled with the latest of news, sports, features, pictures, and cartoons.

Their goal was to consistently and accurately report the news of St. Pat's and its community. In doing so, they created an interesting yet informative newspaper. To achieve this goal, four members of the staff went to a workshop at Whitewater, Wisconsin during the summer. There they learned many new techniques and ideas to profit the Green and Gold. Much credit is due to Editor-in-Chief, John Cichon, who under the supervision of Advisor Mr. James Lithgow, proficiently organized and directed the year's publications. This could not have been accomplished without the help of the Associate Editor Michael Yaneck; News Editor Tom Brady; Feature Editor Abdon Pallasch; Sports Editor Jeff Siegfried; Copy Editor Scott Schubert; Public Relations Director Paul Kosinski and Head Photographer Michael Marasco.

Yearbook Staff Finds 1983 a Year Full of Plans and Preparations

For the yearbook staff, this year (unlike other years) began in the summer at Ball State University. There, they attended classes in the different divisions of the yearbook. At the end of the workshop, the editors laid the framework for this book and planned a theme that would pull it all together. When the editors returned they recruited more staff members, taught them what was new in yearbooks and went to work. Sections were organized and articles and layouts were assigned.

Working on a Labs layout, Luai Mahmud makes sure that the pictures will fit.

Br. John Blease, Mr. James Lithgow, and Mike Alexa check for proportions of the crops on the chess club pictures.

Serving as chief typist, Jeff Modena types an article onto an "attached copy" form, so that the editors can tell how much space the article will take.

Under the direction of Mr. James M. Lithgow, Advisor, James Young, Editor-in-Chief, Michael Yaneck and Jerry Young, Assistant Editors, the framework which was to carry this book, was built.

The staff met everyday after school in the yearbook office to design the placement of pictures on pages, get assignments, write captions and headlines, and fit articles onto pages. Their goal, although appearing to be easy, was to formulate a system (the fail safe system) that would reduce the amount of errors and eliminate the length of time to do a page. This system went into process in early November and it appeared to be very successful because the 1983 Shamrock was finished on June 6th one of the earliest times a fall book was finished in St. Pat's history.

Mr. Lithgow explains to Michael Yaneck and Dan Gaughan what to do with the receipt after a student purchases a book.

We've Got

SPORTS

Sports can be a team effort and an individual effort, but all players are part of our team; even the fans are part of the sports scene. There were some exciting moments this year and some times of disappointment also, but there was a thrill in every competition just knowing the effort was there. Sometimes the score was in our favor and we went wild with victory. We were always proud of our athletes no matter what they did, and so we say thank you to them, and to the faithful fans we say: "Well done, we all have the spirit "Down Pat."

"Down Pat"

New Sport Adds International Flavor to St. Pats

Some new words were heard around St. Pat's this fall season: yellow card, direct kick, sweeper, goalie, but the most prominent one being — Moths. For the first time in the history of the school a soccer team was established. Leading the crusade for the establishment of the team was senior Joe

Ozog. Joe along with Br. Richard Brady worked in order to begin a new tradition at St. Pat's. In its premier season, the team had a very tough schedule, playing St. Joe's (twice), St. Viator, Notre Dame, Leyden, DeLaSalle, and Maine East. During the first, and probably the most important game of theseason, the Moths against Weber, the team was out to prove they meant business, and prove it they did, defeating Weber 2-0. Three of the other more important matches pitted the squad against neighboring schools Fenwick, Holy Cross, and Gordon Tech; who all fell victim to the Moths ardor. In what was probably the most exciting game of the year, the team came back from a 3-1 deficit in the fourth period to win 6-3 over Fenwick.

Among the players on the team, four stand out and deserve special recognition. Joe Ozog, co-captain, was voted the Moths Sportsman of the Year along with the honor of having his jersey retired at the end of the year. Fred Besenhoffer was named best defenseman and MVP, Mike Wuich was picked as the outstanding goalie, and junior German Delatorre was chosen as the best offensiveman as he led the team in scoring.

On the Frosh-Soph level John England was voted as the team's best Sportsman. Dave Craig and goalie Allen Roscoe were voted as best defensemen. The squad also chose their leading scorer, Lionel DaSilva, as the best offensiveman and Chester Ozog as MVP.

The Moths of 1982 demonstrated unusual ability for a first year team, and the great comradery on the team made them play like a TEAM.

Lack of Practice Tells The Hole Story

The 1982 golf team, coached by Mr. Tom Hayes, continually put out their best effort with little success. The main cause of both teams poor records (varsity 1-9, frosh-soph 0-7) was a lack of practice. Players have to work most of the time, so they don't have time to work on their game at local golf courses like other teams do. Even without practice, the players displayed skill and sportsmanship.

MVP Tony Guagliardo led the varsity team. The sole victory for the varsity came against Luther North. The frosh-soph team showed encouragement but always came up a little short.

Rob Roy Golf Course in Mount Prospect served as the team's home course. At each meet approximately eight golfers went out on the course with the four lowest scores compiling the team score. The devotion and interest of the players made up for the poor record. The player's enjoyment of the game kept the team going.

Even Losing Seasons Have Their Bright Spots

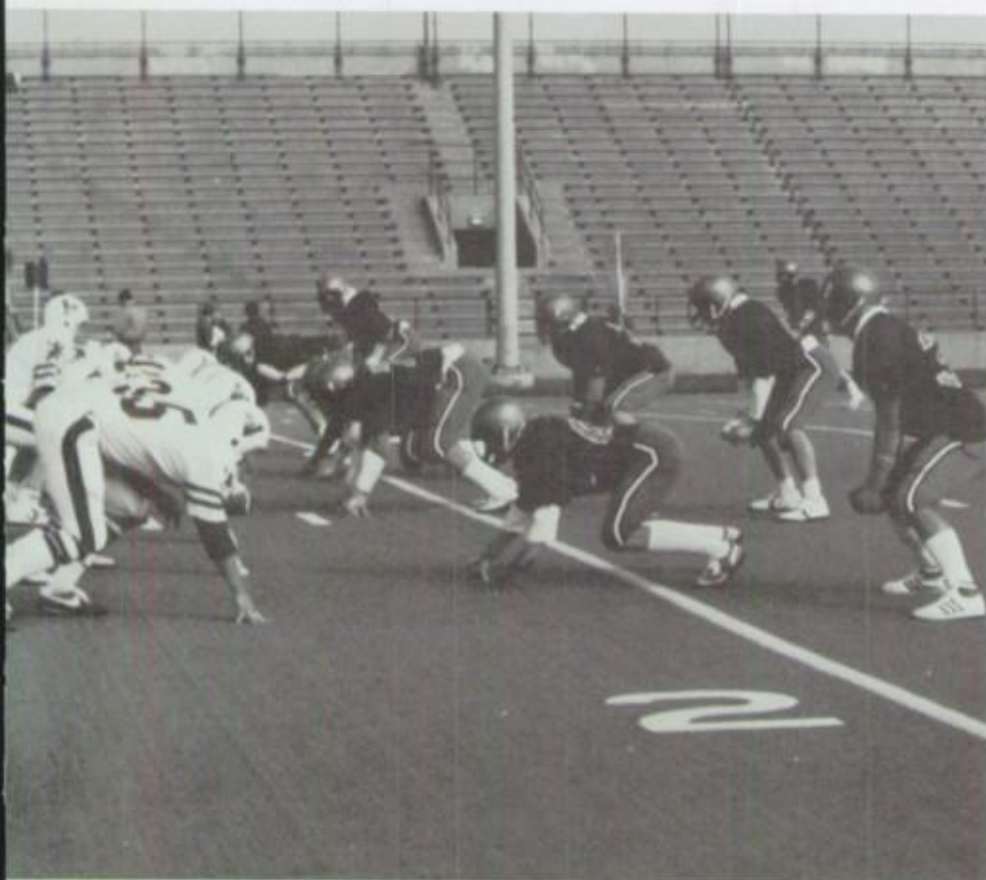

The Shamrock season, as uneventful as it was, had a few bright spots. The team stumbled to its best record in three years, posting a 2-7 record to place them seventh in conference. Among the other highlights were the team's surprising defeat of Holy Cross (15-12) and its victory over St. Joe's, earning them the Br. Damian trophy which will be awarded every year to the winner of the St. Pat's-St. Joe's game in memory of the late Brother.

A tough defeat at the hands of powerhouse Joliet Catholic, and a one point loss to Carmel impressed many football enthusiasts, but the Shamrocks couldn't seem to get it together in their other performances. Head Coach Frank Bauer commented that the team only played one half of the game in each of their first two games (both decisive losses at the hands of Gordon Tech and Weber). Their ability to shut out the Red Horde during the second half of their first game and the 17-7 halftime deficit to Gordon in their second game seemed to prove this theory. Both performances indicated that the Shamrocks would have a better season than expected, but, alas, it seems they never did get it together as depicted by their record.

All-conference bids were received by senior Steve Boffa (rt. guard) and junior Tom Donohue (w.r.) who also set a new pass receiving record. Other impressive performances were turned out by Quarterback Matt Murawski (12-27 passing 3TD passes), tight end Tim Mcgrail (3TD receptions), strong blocking fullback Pat Gibbons, and a fine bounce back performance by junior Sean Lawlor who returned after shoulder and knee injuries.

The Shamrocks showed brief stints of greatness over the season and turned in some fine performances. Although they lost more than they won, they did post their best record in three years, making great strides of improvement over the last year with the strong coaching of Mr. Bauer, Mr. Mahoney, Mr. Collins, and Mr. Egan.

The Shamrock defense stacks up against the potent offense of St. Viator's. Dan Schmeda aggressively drags his opponent to the ground.

Small but Mighty Squad Produces Winning Season

The sophomore team and its outstanding efforts was rewarded with a 5-2 conference record and a 5-4 record overall. MVP award for best defensive back went to Terry Nevarro, John Polishak received the best offensive back award. Best linebacker was a tie between Jim Micks and Mike Rothman, while Bruce Lang received the best offensive lineman award. Mr. Jeff Troxell, assisted by Mr. J.R. Kozio, met with the team as freshmen, sent the players through a strenuous summer exercise program, drilled the team for hours after school, and came up with an outstanding team which set many records during the season. One major record was set by kicker Dan Lukasiewicz as he went 9 for 9 on points after touchdown.

The Freshman Football team victoriously ended the season as they placed 2nd in the conference with a record of 5-2 and an overall record of 6-4. scored 26 touchdowns and quarterbacks Peter Kohn and Bernard Metzel scored more touchdowns than any freshman ever had. This was a tough season with opponents including Marist, who won 28-20, and Gordon who shut out the freshmen 22-0. With the coaching of Mr. Jerry Kehoe, assisted by Mr. Fred Muehlman, it turned out to be a successful season for our freshman team.

Cross-Country Teams Make a Mad Dash to Success

The 1982 Cross Country team was small in number, but big in determination, pride, and talent. Leading the Varsity to its 4-0 record at home and its 3rd place conference finish were Ray Clifford, Pete Mendes, and Mel Stone. Coach John Hammond started the team off by getting them in shape for meets at Notre Dame, Fenton, and Ridgewood; the squad finished 4th, 2nd, and 2nd respectively.

The Shamrocks finished 6th in Districts, and Ray Clifford advanced to the state sectional. Another highlight for the season came when sophomore Peter Mendes broke the school's Frosh-

Season Brings Swim Team Mixed Results

At the completion of what was a disappointing season for Coach Glorioso and the swim team, the squad found itself with a 4-7 overall record, a 1-3 conference record, 3rd place in the conference meet at Marmion Military Academy, and 9th in the District meet. Bright spots in the season included junior Kevin Kilroy's breaking the school record for the 100 yard breaststroke and 3rd place finishes in both the Main South Relays and the Shamrock Relays. Other above average performances came from seniors Tom Fleischhacker and Garrett Fleming.

The frosh-soph on the other hand was surprisingly impressive in almost all of their meets. The sophomore team collected the only first place finish in the Shamrock Relays (a Varsity meet with three Frosh-Soph events) and along with a surprising freshmen squad ended the season on a more positive note with a 9-5 record. The freshmen captured 2nd place in the Leyden Relays (a freshman event) and almost defeated the Proviso West freshmen team, losing by one point. The sophomores were led by Dan O'Connor (500 yard freestyle) and John Wallace (100 yard backstroke), and the only major disappointment in their entire season came in the conference meet when they finished a miserable 4th after hopes of coming in 2nd.

Grabbing a quick breath, junior John Landon races toward the wall in the 50 yard freestyle race.

Wrestlers Grapple Their Way To the Top

Whenever the St. Patrick Wrestling Team was mentioned, the names of its two most successful members were sure to follow soon. Juniors Charlie Doyle and Dennis Mitchell led a young but impressive squad to a surprisingly successful season.

Evading his opponent, sophomore Joe Cerano struggles to get out of a difficult situation.

Although Coach Collins expected strong performances from many individuals, the team surpassed all expectations by placing second at the Conference Tournament and second in the overall Conference Standings.

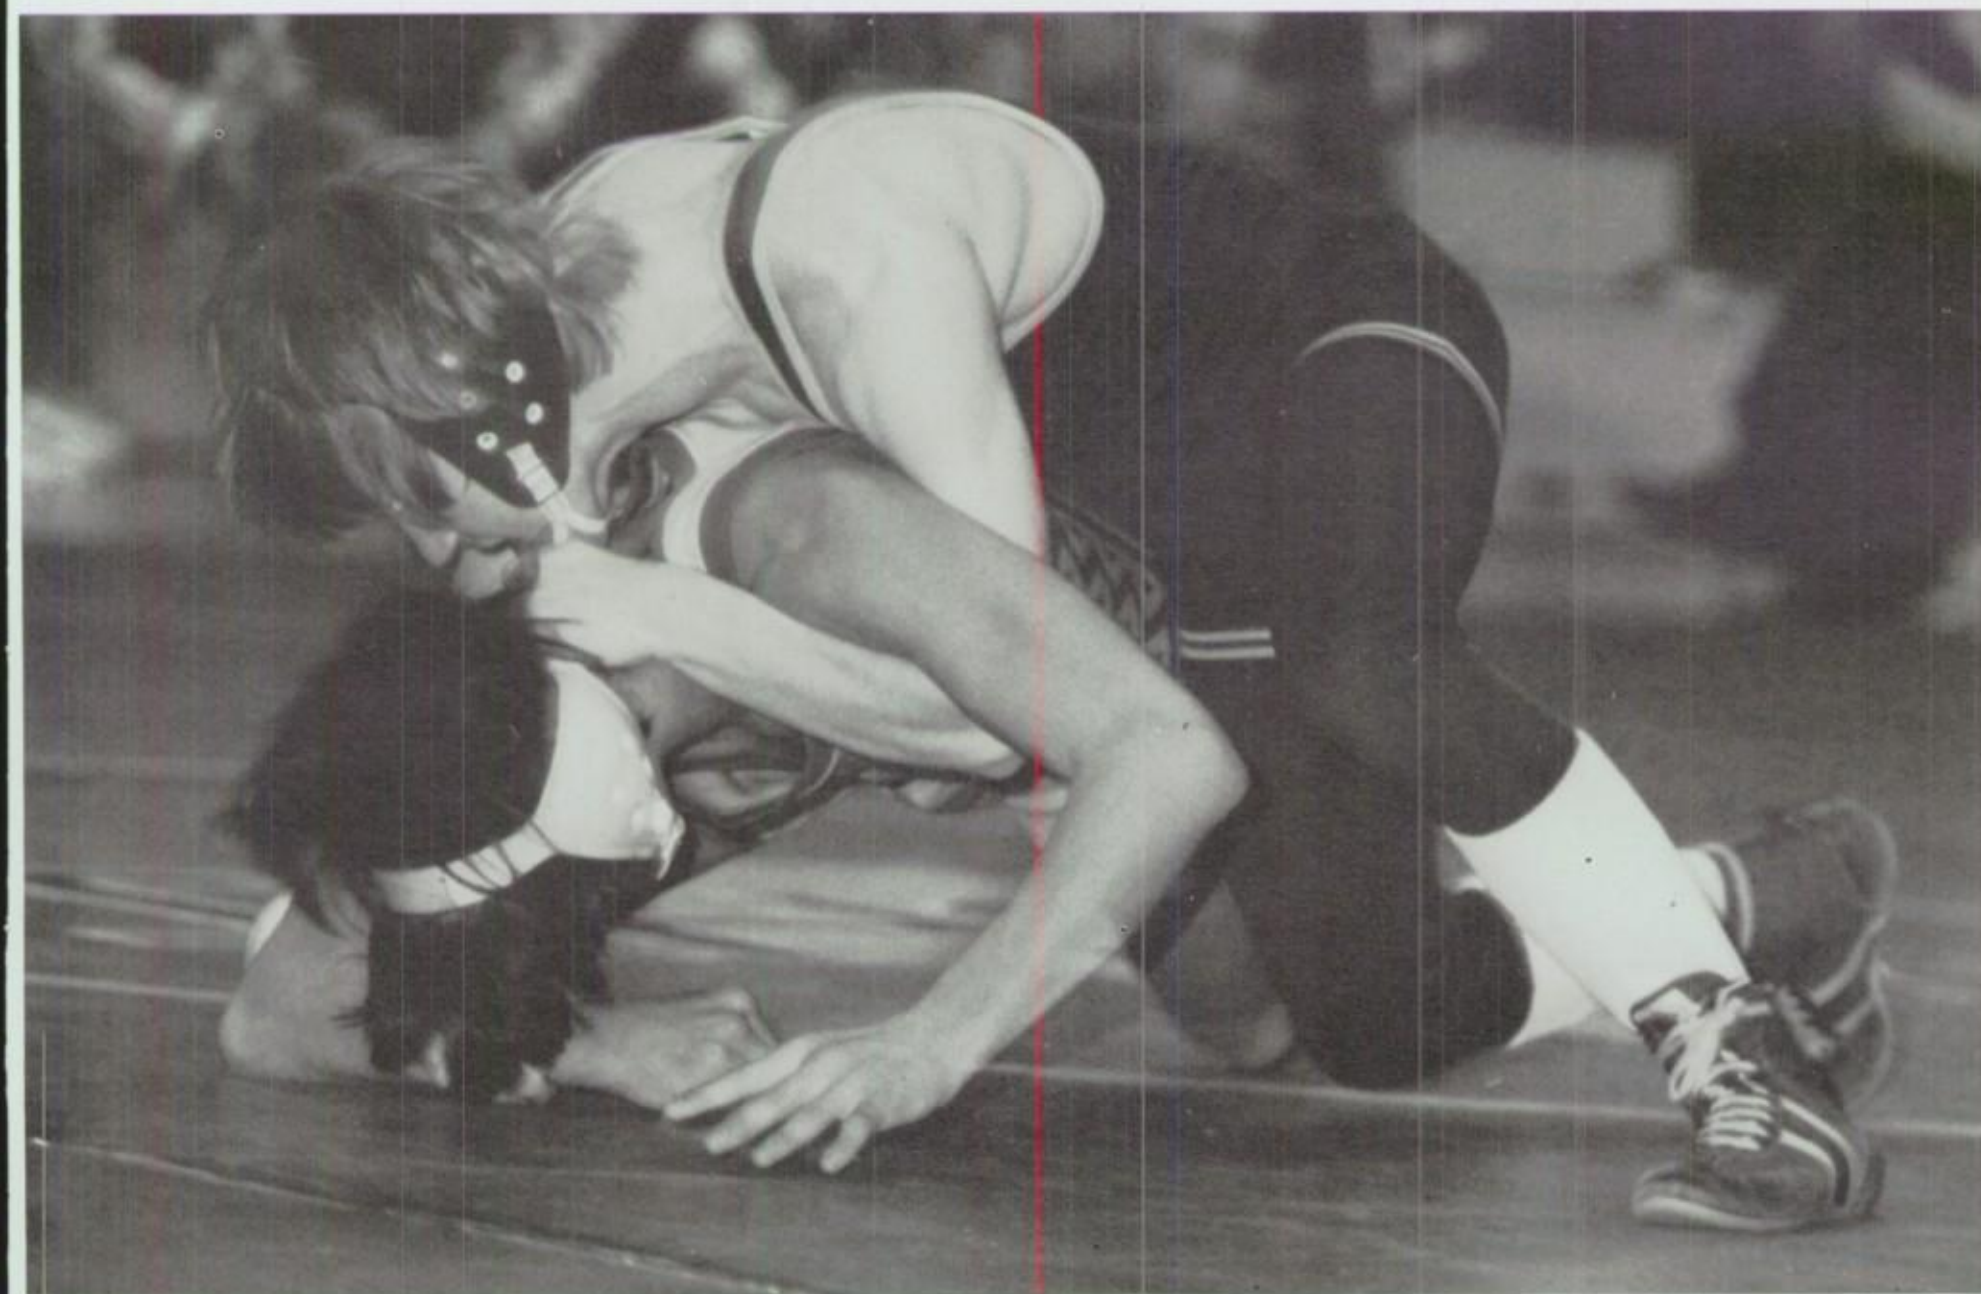

But the most unforeseen event occurred when both Doyle and Mitchell earned trips to the State Championships. For Mitchell the trip was a short one as he failed to place, but Doyle grappled his way into third place earning ten points for the team downstate.

The two state qualifiers were supported by a youthful, agile, and able Varsity squad which included only three seniors (John Fiandaca, Steve Walsh, and Ray Navarro). Among the various sophomores wrestling for the varsity were Mike Mroczek (HWT.) and Mike Haughan (98 lbs.) who both turned in sound performances.

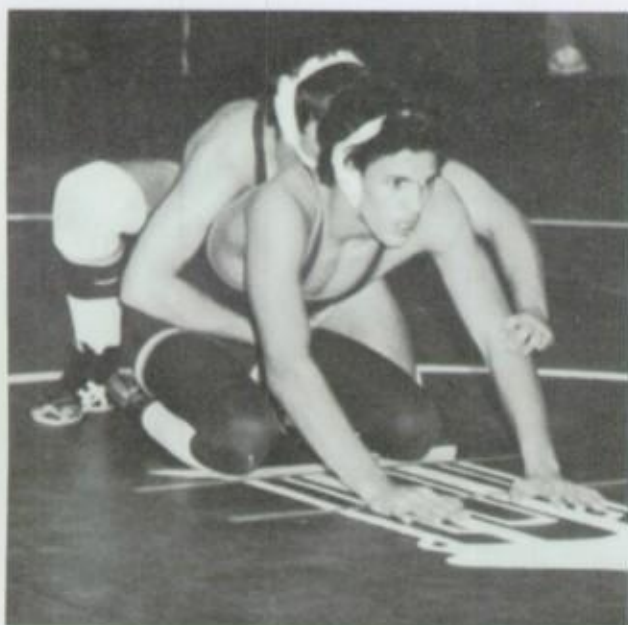

Mr. Collins turned a group of young, inexperienced grapplers into a formidable match for any squad, as proved by their 12-9 season record which included meets against many of the state's finest teams.

With the Help of Intersquad Wrestling Frosh and Sophs Have

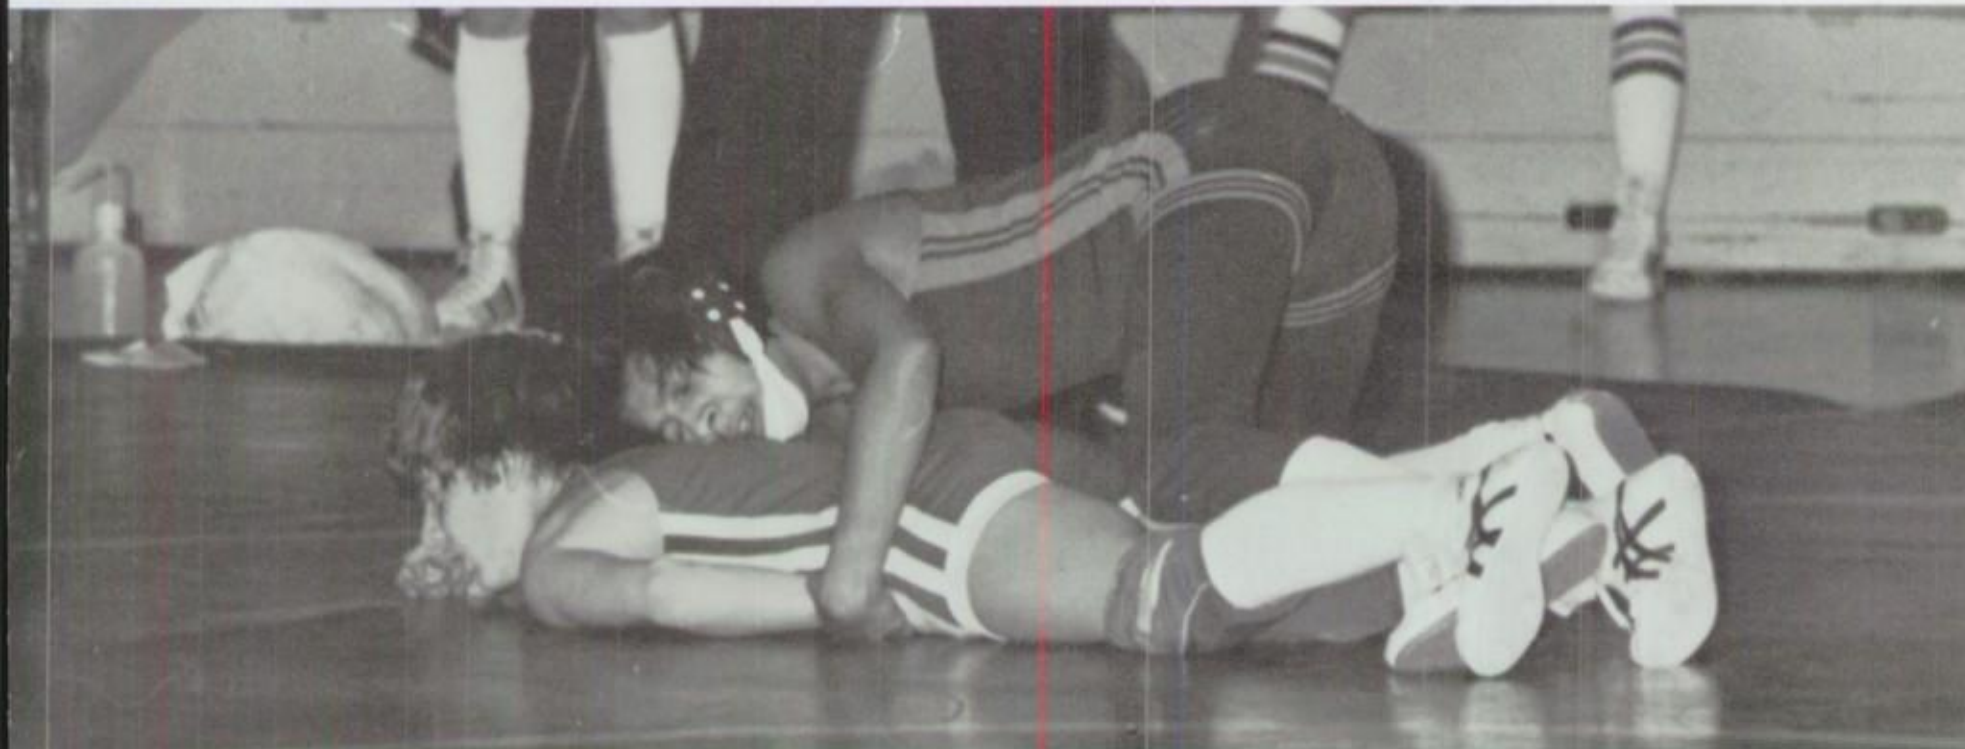

500+ Seasons

Not only did the sophomores contribute heavily to the varsity's efforts, but they faired well as a team. Led by Dan Fiandaca (105 lbs.) with a record of 20-8, Kevin Canlas (126 lbs.) with a record of 17-10-1, and Ed Glascott (138 lbs.) with a record of 10-4, the sophomore Squad gained its most notable honors when it placed 6th at the 16 team Notre Dame Tourney. Dan Fiandaca earned 1st place finishes at both the Bolingbrook and Hersey Tournays, Mike Rotham placed 1st at Notre Dame, and Kevin Canlas placed 4th twice — once at Notre Dame and once at Bolingbrook. Although the team finished 6th at the Conference Tournament, Kevin Canlas placed 1st wrestling at 105 lbs. The fact that the sophomores were instrumental in the varsity's strong season was due to the hard work which Coach Collins expected and demanded from the squad.

The freshman team, directed by coach Catalano, was transformed during the course of the season from an inexperienced, loose-knit squad into a hard-working, confident team willing to work together to put forth its best effort as a team. The team hovered around the .500 mark much of the year and finished 6th at the Conference Tourney with Mike Reyes (119 lbs.) finishing 3rd and Tom Kratz (90 lbs.), Bob Solis (126 lbs.), and Mark Kosinski (155 lbs.) placing 4th. More important than the season record and conference finish was the great experience that the team members gained throughout the season.

Topsy/Turvy Season Has Shining Light

This year's basketball squad was synonymous with the name Len Bertolini. Bertolini, Captain of the Varsity, smashed 12 Shamrock basketball records on his way to being named the Sun-Times All-Area player of the year. Bertolini was also selected as a member of the All-Conference team as the MVP for the St. Patrick Thanksgiving Tournament, and as the team MVP at the Carbondale Tournament. Among the records to fall at the hands of "The Sheriff" were total career points (1592), free throw (77%), and career assists (221). But even with the best player in the area, the team floundered through the season posting the worst conference and season records in the history of basketball here.

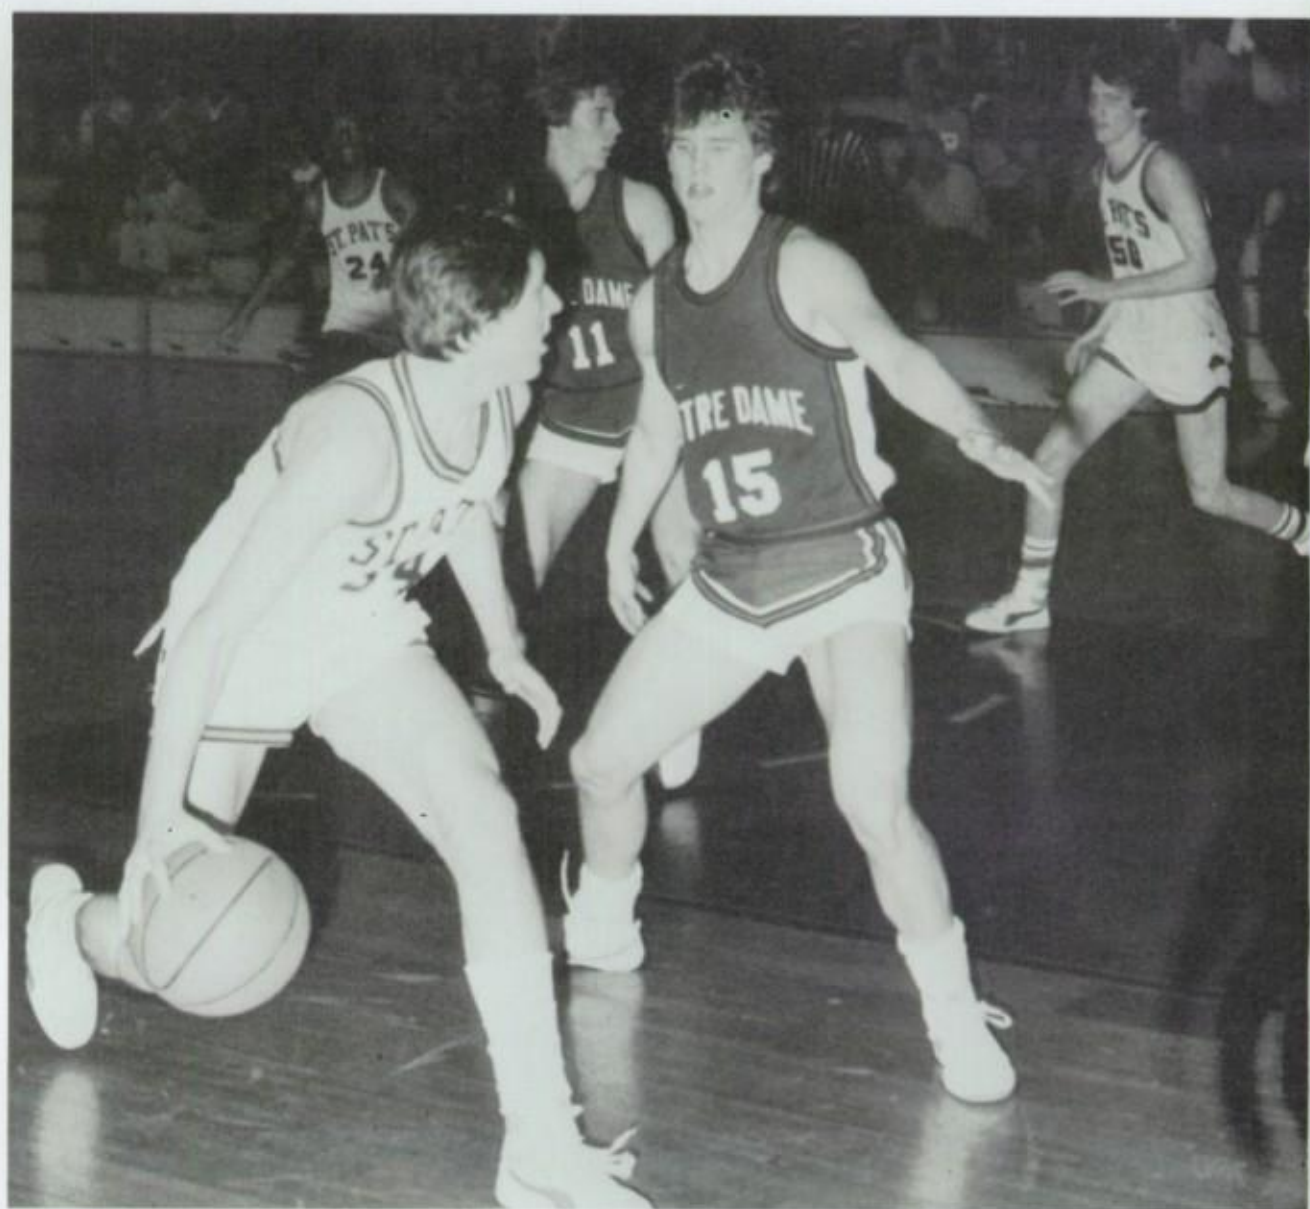

With Coach Max Kurland as a coach at Pat's for his 24th season and Mr. Joe Schmidt helping out as assistant, the team, plagued by inconsistency, stumbled through the conference season, disappointing fans who expected much better than the team's third place conference finish with a record of 8-6. At times the team looked as though they could take on the world, at others they looked as though they would have a tough time fighting their way through a wet paper bag. The squads first place finish in the Thanksgiving Tournament raised the hopes of many of their followers; hopes crushed with embarrassing losses at the hands of Carmel and Marist.

Spirits were raised again as the Shamrocks finished their season by winning 4 of their last 5 games, including a whitewash of the eventual conference champ St. Joseph. Their only loss was at the hands of Benet (ranked in both city papers) by a mere three points. Fans were beginning to wonder if maybe the team had matured toward the end of the season, and were preparing for the state regionals with new hopes. After the squad crushed its first round opponent, Elmwood Park, by 22 points, the team was looking forward to its next game against Leyden and afterwards a possible showdown with Catholic League powerhouse Weber. But the team again proved its inexperience by losing at the buzzer to Leyden 65-63. Considering that there were only three seniors on the team (Len Bertolini, Gene Smith, and Terry Johnson), the team's record of 15-12 wasn't that bad, but it isn't close to that which was expected of a squad whose sophomore record was 11-1 in conference.

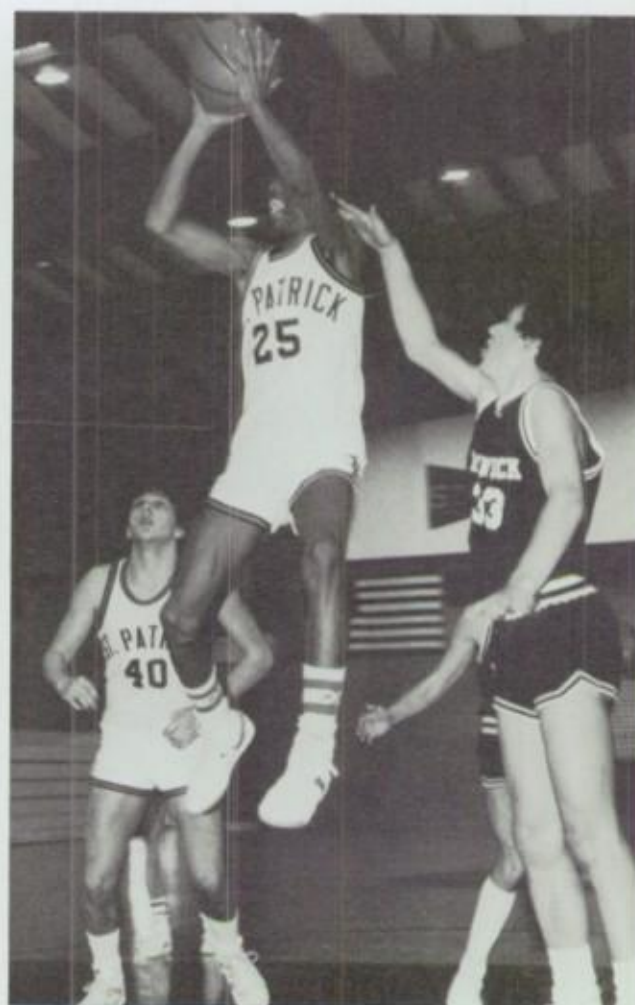

Len "the Sheriff" Bertolini drives in for 2 of his 1592 career points, against Joliet Catholic. Looking for an open teammate, Rich Sopek dribbles into a Notre Dame defender.

Sun-Times All-Area player of the year, Len Bertolini, puts up a jumpshot against conference champs, St. Joseph.

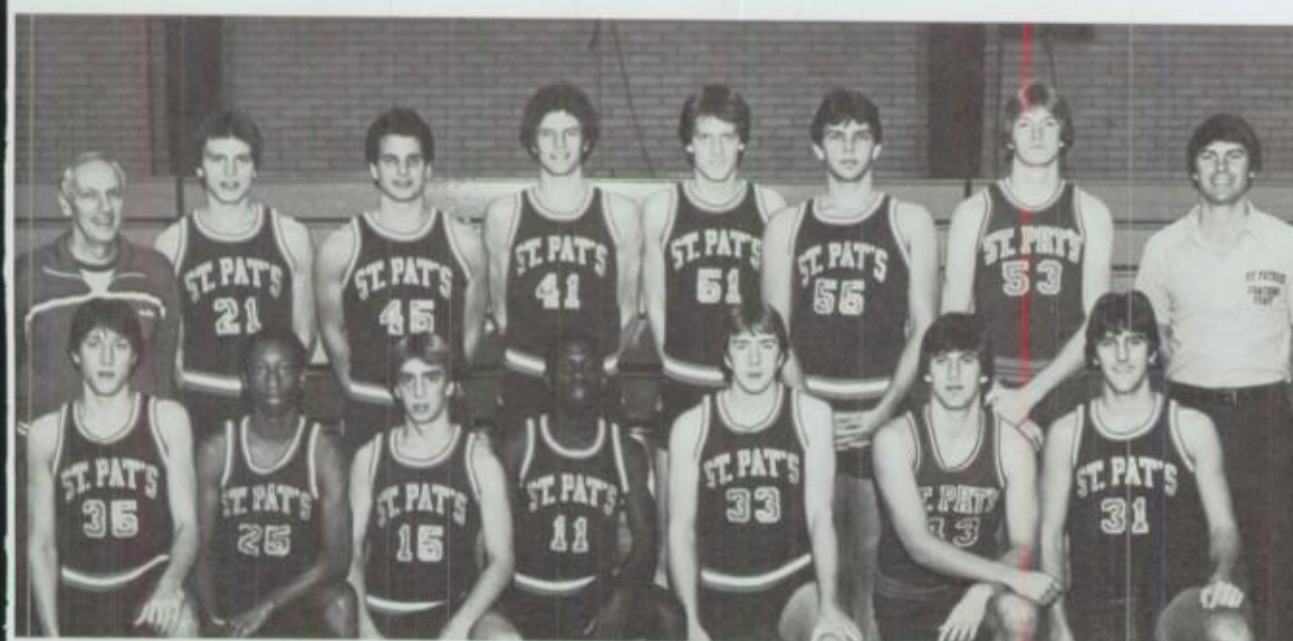

During a JV game against Fenwick, junior Joe Johnson drives in for an easy two points.

After starting out the season on an embarrassing note (4 straight losses), the sophomore team picked itself off the floor and won the next 4 in a row and only lost 4 more through the rest of the season while collecting 15 wins. Mr. Pete Willert, in his 5th year of coaching here, led the team through a tough conference season. The squad ended up in 2nd place with a conference record of 12-2, only one game behind Carmel. Led on the court by Terry Murphy, Brian Walsh, Finbarr Deely, and Paul Einert, the team matured through the year as proved by their final season record of 15-8 (including a 3-0 JV record). They impressed many with an exciting victory over Carmel (62-59), and played tough in losses to Arlington and Weber. This year's team surprised those who didn't believe that they could match the record of the past sophomore team.

The freshman team would have liked to do as fine a job as the sophomore team did, but Mr. Zimmerman's squad came up short with a 6-8 "A" team conference record to tie for 5th place with Notre Dame. Their final season record (A and B team) was 16-28, but they did show flashes of improvement throughout the season as witnessed by their 2nd place finish in the Weber tourney and late season victory over conference runner-up Marist by a score of 48-46. The "B" team fared worse compiling a 5-14 record and at one time lost 8 straight, the "B" team was coached by Mr. Jack Jordan. The "A" team was led on offense by Tom Killen and on defense by Pat Cameron and Joel Walsh.

Water Polo Players End .500 Season With an Outstanding Finale

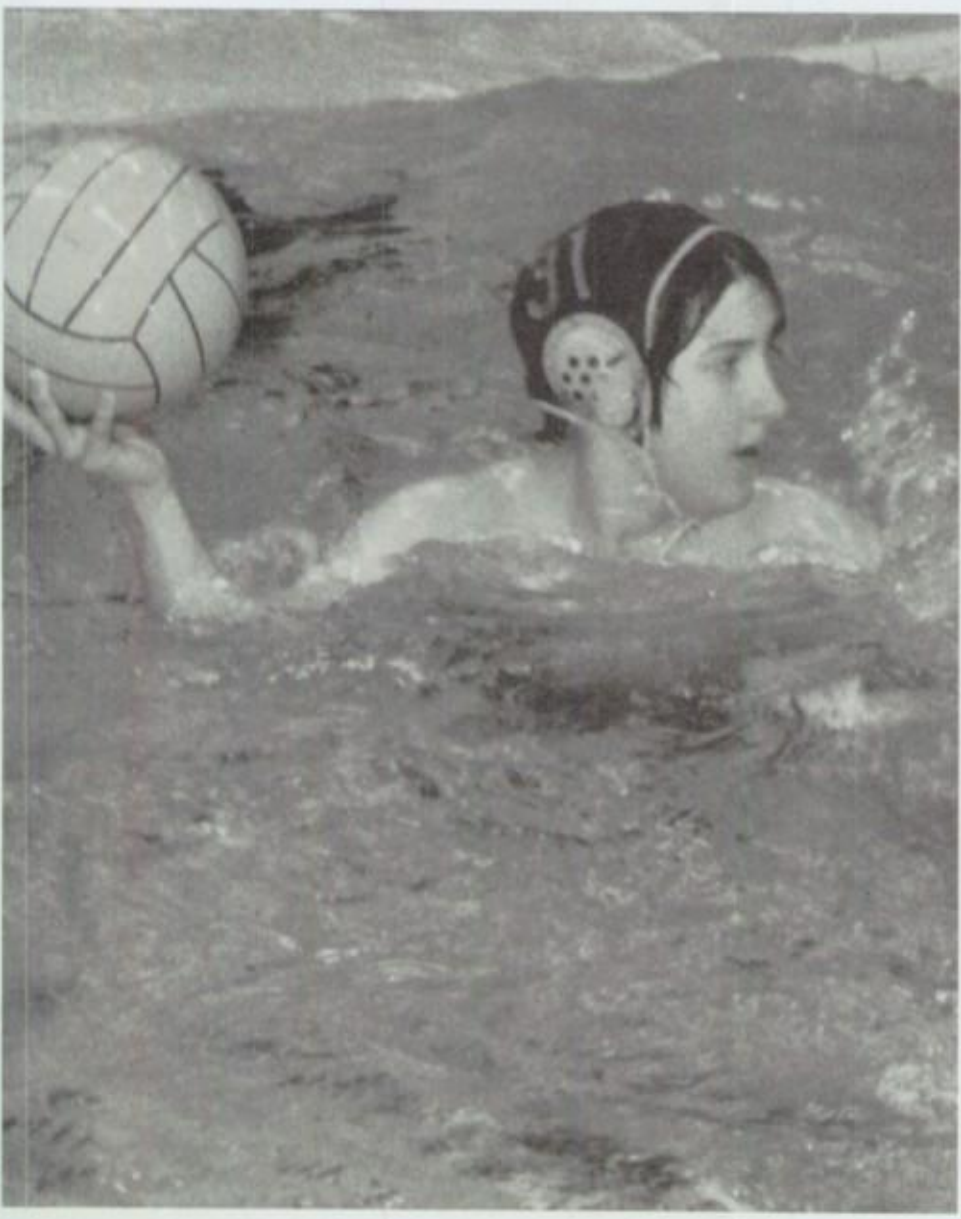

Building what may be the strongest sports tradition at the school, the Water Polo team struggled through a tough schedule and finished a mediocre 7-7. But ending the season on the strength of two pressure packed victories, they stormed into the play-offs and defeated their first opponent, Evanston 11-10 in a strenuous overtime game. After taking an early lead against Loyola in the second game, the team fell behind, and although they battled hard, couldn't manage to catch, up losing 12-5.

The team has finished in the top ten in the state for the last two years, finishing 6th this year and 9th the year before. Junior Dave Lurie was selected for the all-state first team — the only goalie selected for the squad, and senior Pat Murphy was picked for the all-state second team. The two became only the 4th and 5th Shamrocks ever to be picked for the prestigious squads. Murphy led the team in points scored, converting 52 of 109 shots for 47%. He was backed up by juniors Dave Lurie (24-41 for 59%), Larry Kunkel (19-47 for 41%), and sophomore John Wallace (27-67 for 40%). Leading the team in shots stopped and shots taken, Dave Lurie blocked 65% of the shots taken (194 of 297) while back-up goalie Gene Smith stopped 116 of 162 for 71% blocked.

Sophomore Dan O'Connor led the J.V. in scoring with 13 goals, and the goal was tended by sophomore Tom Johns and freshman Don Pavlis. The team finished at 1-12-1 gaining a tie in their first game and a win in their last game; it should be mentioned that many of the J.V.'s best sophomores played at the varsity level.

With teams finishing in the top ten in state the past two seasons and as high as 5th in recent years, Coach Glorioso has earned a reputation as a hard worker who emphasizes the need for and importance of practice. And his work has obviously paid off as proved by the results he has obtained.

Varsity Baseball Has a Year of

Hurrahs and Heartbreakers

Although the varsity squad failed to live up to the standards set by previous teams, they grew as a team throughout the season and surprised many by winning their first game in the regionals. A shaky pitching staff, which had been the team's biggest problem through the season, was its downfall in the second regional game against Holy Cross. Ahead 6-3 and on the verge of a major upset, a string of walks in the final inning caused the game to go into extra innings. Holy Cross defeated the Shamrocks by a score of 7-6 in the 8th inning, shattering the team's bid for an upset.

Under the guidance of Coach Demos and only 8 returning members, the juniors gained valuable experience as the season progressed. The team posted a deceiving 9-16 record (4-10 in conference), but the high point in its season came when it defeated St. Rita by a score of 4-1. Toward the end of the season the squad suffered a heartbreaking loss at the hands of Chicago Public League Semi-finalists Taft. With Pat's ahead 8-7 going into the bottom of the 7th, a Taft batter cracked a homerun with a man on, to end the game. Other highlights included an 11-1 whitewash of St. Ignatius and a doubleheader sweep of conference rival Carmel (7-5, 10-3). A number of rain-outs caused the shortening of the season to 25 games which was another problem for the Shamrocks. The lack of playing time caused by the cancellations made it almost impossible to sharpen their game skills. The team's most productive pitcher was Frank Shamie, while Al Kern led the team in hitting. Coach Demos guided the team through a tough schedule which included conference games against 2 of the area's top 10 teams, Marist and Joliet Catholic.

Underclass Baseball Players Have a Season of Growing and Learning

Crucial mental errors and hard luck plagued the sophomore squad this year. On the way to posting an 8-12-1 record, the team disappointed many who expected more from a team that finished 15-13 as freshmen. Mishandled grounders and other late inning mishaps caused the squad to lose control of many games they seemed already to have wrapped up. One problem over which the team had no control was the number of cancellations and rain-outs which forced a crowded schedule on them. An impressive aspect of the squad was their undying spirit and commitment to each other and the team. When it seemed that they should be down on one another, they continued to work as a team. Their 5-9 conference record was below expectations but not altogether bad considering that the sophomore year is a time to build an experienced team that is capable and willing to work together. Coach Buscarini accomplished this; he put together a squad that was led by stand-outs John Jerger, Derrick Landini, Chet Ozog, and Chris Mikolajczewski but was willing to work as one unit.

The freshman squad faired better than the sophs. posting a record of 17-15 (6-8 in conference) while learning basically the same lesson. Mr. Presslak emphasized the need for the team to play as a whole; he stressed basics, and commented that a loss was acceptable if a lesson was to be learned. The team managed to instill in themselves the same "never say die" spirit that sophs did, and despite the number of rain-outs and the fact they had no home field, the team learned their lessons well. Behind the strong pitching of Joey Walsh and a powerful offense which included John Bellizzi, Tony D'Andrea, and Tim Knieling, the team completed a successful season.

Practice and Conditioning Are Key Factors in Track's Team of Stars

Posting an overall record of 7-2 in dual meets, this year's varsity team displayed an abundance of skills, great speed, and agility to match as they managed to take 3rd place in conference. Led by junior Ray Clifford, the squad earned its highest honor of the season by placing 2nd at the Niles West Invitational.

A variety of talents came together this year to produce one of the strongest squads in recent memory. The team, which competes from mid-March to end of May, was knee deep in talent in almost all aspects of track competition. Varsity MVP Joe Laluya, who turned in outstanding performances throughout the season in both the 100 and 200 yrd. dashes, combined with Roger Maco, Vic Revolinski, and Rob Nevera to break the 1 mile relay record of 3:31.5 which was set last year. Senior, Rob Nevera also ran well all year, almost breaking the record for the ½ mile run on various occasions. But, this year's biggest story came when Ray Clifford was chosen to run at the State Championships. Running in both the 1 and 2 mile races, Ray consistently performed magnificently — outrunning virtually all his competition. A number of other members turned in fine performances this season, they included: Vic Revolinski, ¼ mile run; Rich Pokorski, high and long jumps; and Mel Stone, ½ mile run. Also running varsity much of the year was sophomore stand-out Pete Mendes, who was usually overshadowed by Clifford. All three coaches stressed the need and importance for practice and conditioning throughout the season.

Lots of Practice and Varsity Running Mean

Ability Without Opportunity

We all know the common phrase "practice makes perfect." Well, the Fr./So. track squad may not have been perfect, but their constant practice after school sure caused great improvement. The long hours running on the 2nd and 3rd floor hallways paid off for the team, although it didn't place high in conference (7th). One reason for the squad's low finish in conference was that its top runner, sophomore Pete Mendes, ran varsity much of the year. But when he did run for the Fr./So. he was nothing short of phenomenal. Taking part in the smashing of 3 records (2 mile, 1 mile, and 2 mile relay), Pete was the mainstay of the squad. The 2 mile relay team of Pete Mendes, Jack Treb-nio, Louis Santos, and Jeff Ziemann broke the record of 8:41.9 set in '82.

The team's MVP was Pete Mendes, and Bob Vittetoe (shot-put and discus) was voted the most improved player. Other impressive performances were turned out by Henry McGill (high jump, $\frac{1}{4}$ mile), Jeff Ziemann ($\frac{1}{2}$ mile), Jack Trebnio ($\frac{1}{2}$ mile), and Joe Lendion (100/200 yd. dash). Like the varsity, the importance and need for proper practice and conditioning was stressed, and because many of the team members ran both varsity and Fr./So. at different times during the year, the team was never allowed to display its total ability.

heartbreaking loss at the hands of conference rival Joliet Catholic by a score of 2-3. The team's spirit and dedication showed throughout the match, as they nearly upset the state's 19th ranked team. The team posted victories over St. Gregory (5-0) and St. Joe's (4-1) but couldn't overcome arch rival Holy Cross, falling 2-3. Both of the other 2 conference matches resulted in losses for the squad, losing to Notre Dame 0-5 and to Carmel 1-4.

Following the trend set by the varsity, the Fr./So. repeated the score of the parent team 7 times through the course of the 12 match season, and managed only one more victory. We've Got

ACADEMICS

One of the things that has built a reputation for St. Pat's is the quality of its academic programs. Whether it's art with Mrs. Forgue, Chemistry with Brother Thomas Dominic or English with Mr. Venegoni, the expectations are high. The discipline of daily assignments and the challenge of special projects prepare the student for higher educational work. No one is totally thrilled with writing essays or speaking before a class, but there is pride in knowing it will all pay off. A variety of electives gives the men a chance to broaden interests and investigate other possibilities. Often, one course can alter a planned vocation. We have grouped the courses in such a way that you can clearly see we truly have academics "Down Pat."

"DOWN PAT"

Through Working With the Teachers and Students, the Administration Has Become the

Keystone of Success

The keystone of St. Patrick lay in the offices of the group called the administration. At the top, the principal, Br. Kenneth Gillund, took on the responsibilities of directing the school, its programs, and finances. Second in command, the assistant principal, Hilary Kokosinski, had the duties of arranging and supervising daily operations, field trips, classroom visitations, and supervising the library staff and registrar. Moving down the line, Mr. Charles Schmidt, curriculum director, organized student and faculty schedules and all room assignments. Mr. Schmidt also supervised the design and makeup of the courses, the closed circuit TV programs, progress reports, and report cards. The dean of students, Joseph Schmidt, was the person responsible for the discipline of the students, C.T.A. passes, I.D. cards, and fire drills. The next position was the director of development, Br. Nicholas Schumer, who conducted fund raising programs and developed new programs. Br. Nick also directed the affairs of the following organizations: Alumni, Public Relations, Parents Club, Green and Gold, and the Shamrock. The director of guidance, Br. George Fowley, was responsible for the counseling of all the students, for the testing programs given in the school, and the job placement program. Our campus minister, Br. Leo Weidner, directed the retreats, masses and all prayer services. The athletics director, Pete Schmit, oversaw the whole athletic department and the activities of the different sports.

During his lunch period, Craig Dienberg asks Br. Leo for his Christian Service grade.
In the morning, Mrs. Grace Catalano receives a call about another sick student.

After school, Mrs. Majewski types tomorrow's daily bulletin.
Paging through the NorthWest Passage, Br. Michael stops to remove an article about St. Pat's.

Having an after school chat, Mr. Presslak, Mr. Schmidt, and Mr. Buscarini talk about yesterday's Baseball game.

Bro. Leo Srubas, the business manager, supervised the handling of all money, receipts, banking, and disbursement. In addition to that, Bro. Leo supervised all auxiliary enterprises of the school (eg. Bookstore), and the method of payment of tuition by each student. The Public Relations Department was directed by Bro. Michael Monshau who supervises all the material that was released to the community about St. Pat's.

and non-college bound students. The courses geared toward higher education were: Accounting I and II, Law I and II, and Economics. Mr. Lombard of Wright Junior College taught Accounting II, an advanced placement course. St. Pat's also offered non-college preparatory courses, such as Business Careers, general business, marketing, sales, and 2nd practical record keeping. These classes covered topics necessary for survival in the business world, almost a necessity for most students were Typing and Consumer Education, a study of balancing checkbooks, buying, budgeting, and taxes.

A required course, as stated in the 1982-1983 course selection book is a class that is mandatory for advancement in college and society. To graduate one needs a total of 26½ credit mandatory classes, the other 14½ credits are elective courses. Although one might say, "why can't I take what I want," these courses were believed to be necessities for everyday life.

When the freshmen arrived here in August, they were bombarded with classes that they previously had in grammar school. They really didn't have any say so in what they wanted to choose. The freshmen had one elective to choose and even that was limited. Freshmen year required courses consisted of: English I (introduction to grammar and literature), Algebra I (basic principles of algebra), Religion I (Christian understanding and natural development), World Cultures (to better understand the complexities of the world issues and problems), and Physical Education (to exercise and stay fit, because some students never get the chance to).

Sophomore year introduced a brand

The other required courses for sophomore year were: English II (the development of one's writing skills, correct grammar, spelling usage, and the introduction of the dictionary and library reference aids), Geometry (covering the basic principles of geometry such as: postulates, theorems, and congruencies), and Religion II (covering the Old Testament, New Testament, and prayer).

Junior year marked the time of decision, the decision to choose two and a half classes. The junior year required courses were: English III (composition and literature), a wide selection of Religion III and IV courses such as: History of Christianity, Prayer, In Search of Meaning, Marriage Survey, Social Justice, and Christian Service Experience. The final course topping off the list is American History (acquainting the student with the important issues of our nation).

Students Discover New Talents

The fine arts department presented an outstanding choice of art courses including Introduction to Art, Fine Arts Survey, and Art I and II; taught by Mrs. Theresa Forgue; Concert Chorus, taught by Mr. David Hotek; and technical drawing, taught by Br. Joseph Poska. Art courses enabled the student to develop a sense of artistic expression, perspective and led him to new horizons.

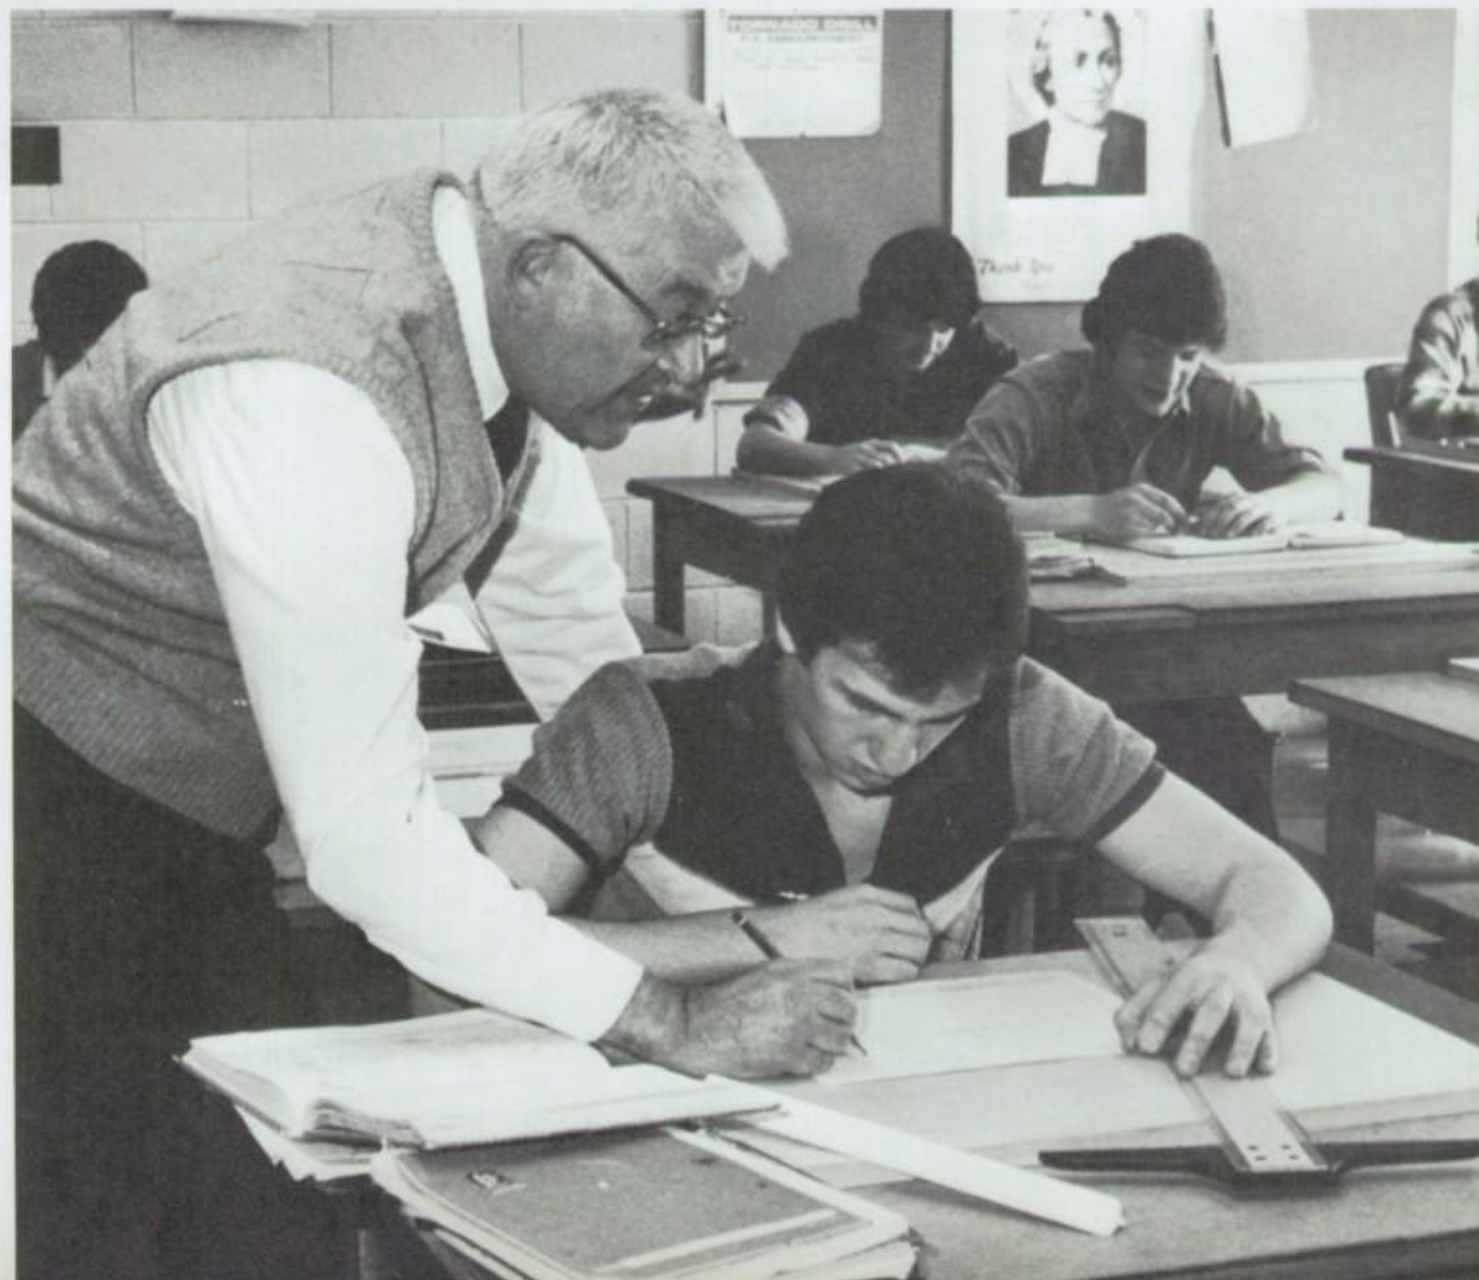

These horizons included winning gold medals in the national judging of the Scholastic Magazine art competition in New York City. The art work of these gold medal winners was displayed in the Corcoran museum in Washington D.C. Another award winning course was concert chorus. In this

The course completing the fine arts list was technical drawing. Here the student, ruler in hand, learned the basic rules of dimensions and blue print designing.

Text Book-Learning and Hands-On Experience

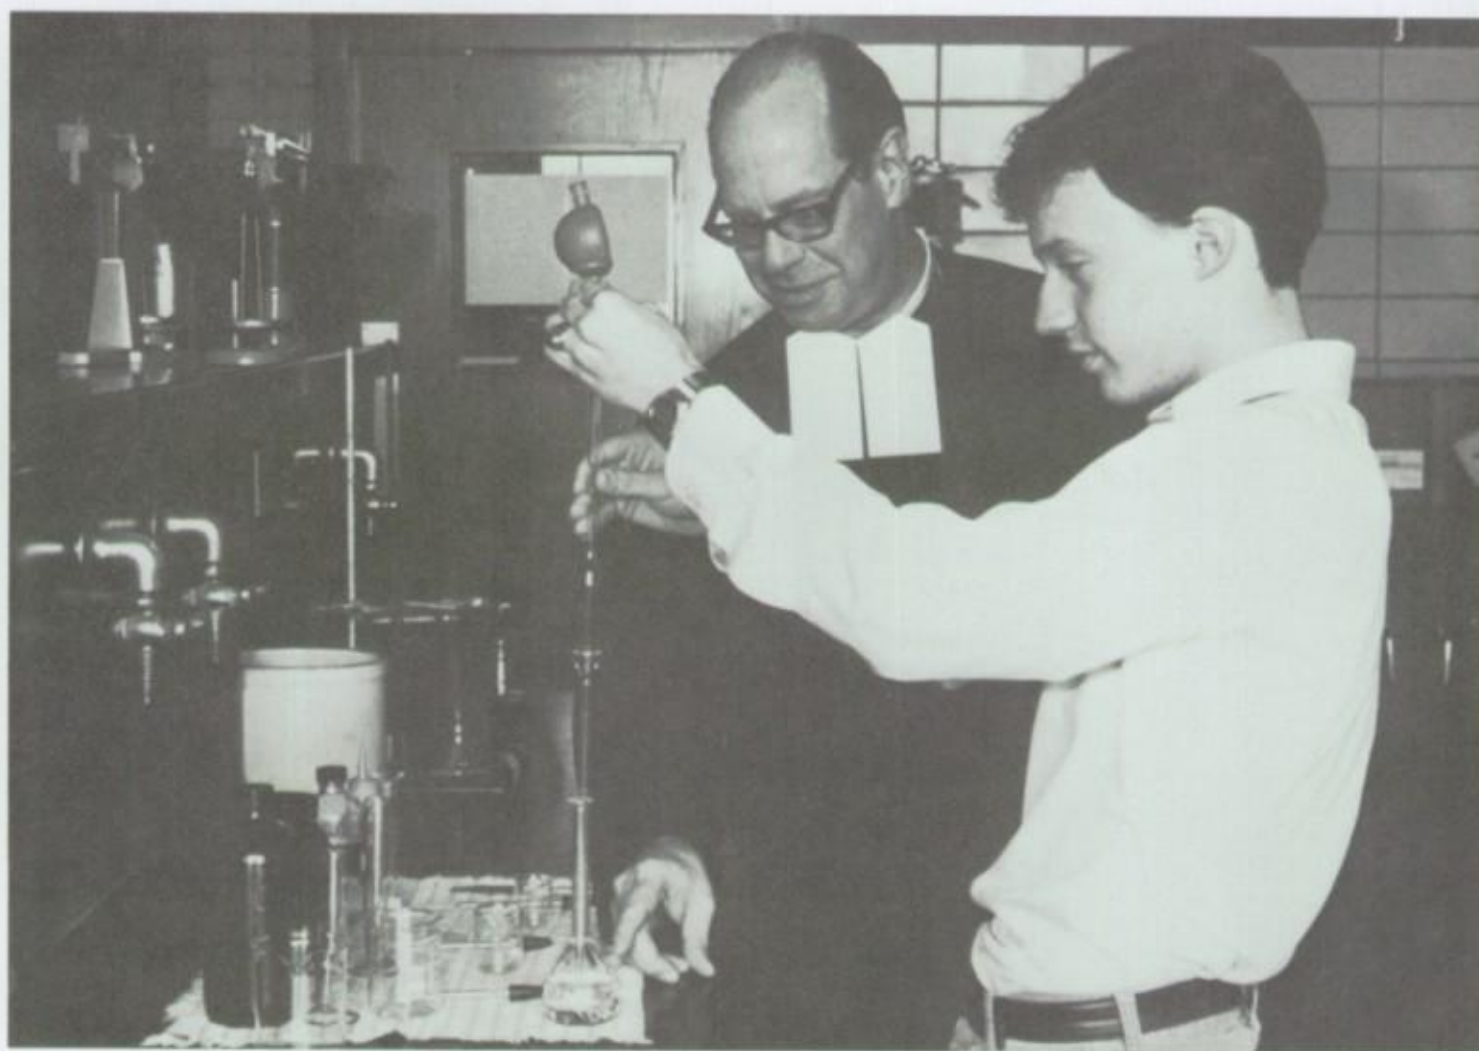

The 1983 year at St. Patrick offered a large number of laboratory courses. The largest was biology, which was a state requirement. Biology had been divided into three different courses which included: Life Science I, High School Biology, and Honors BSCS Biology. Other sciences that were optional included: Physical Science, CHEMS Chemistry, Honors CHEMS Chemistry, Physics, Honors Physics, and Advanced Placement College Biology. The Science Department, headed by Mr. Welker, consisted of five teachers who all had at least a masters' degree and an average of twenty years teaching. Other types of lab courses offered were the BASIC and FORTRAN computer languages. Because of greater student interest this year, three more computers were purchased for student use. There were a total of four BASIC computer classes which were held both semesters and one FORTRAN class which was held during the second semester.

Other labs which were non-academic included physical education and driver's education. Physical education, which was required by the state, was taken mostly by freshmen and juniors. It included an alternation of swimming and other athletic training. Even though driver's education may not be an academic subject, the lab experience came with behind the wheel training. There were seven sessions held this year which ran from September to May. Each class numbered about forty students, anticipating the day when they would drive.

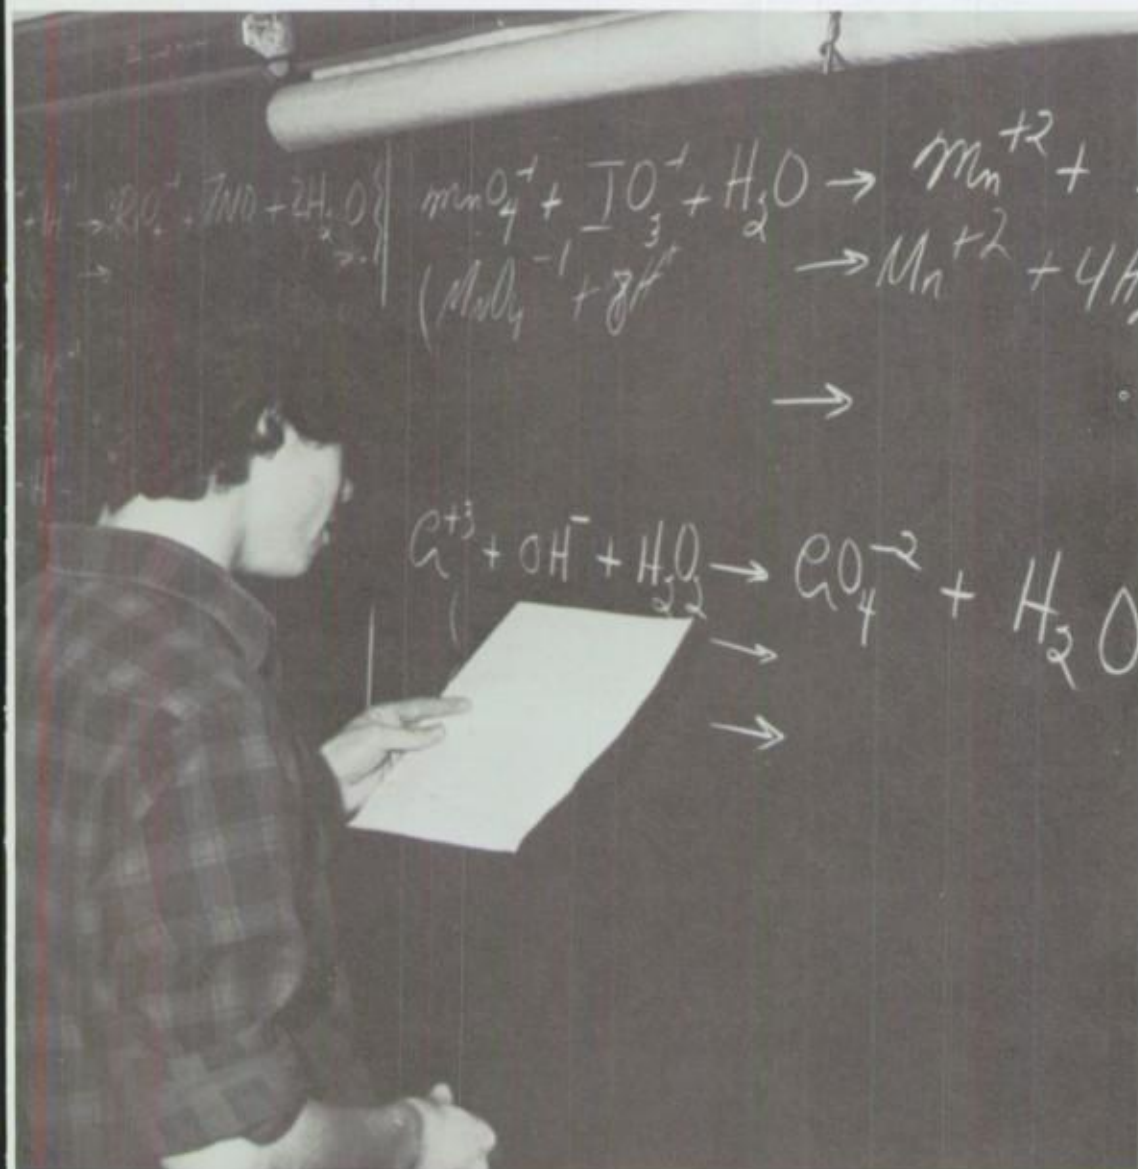

Lectures played an important part in all lab classes such as biology.

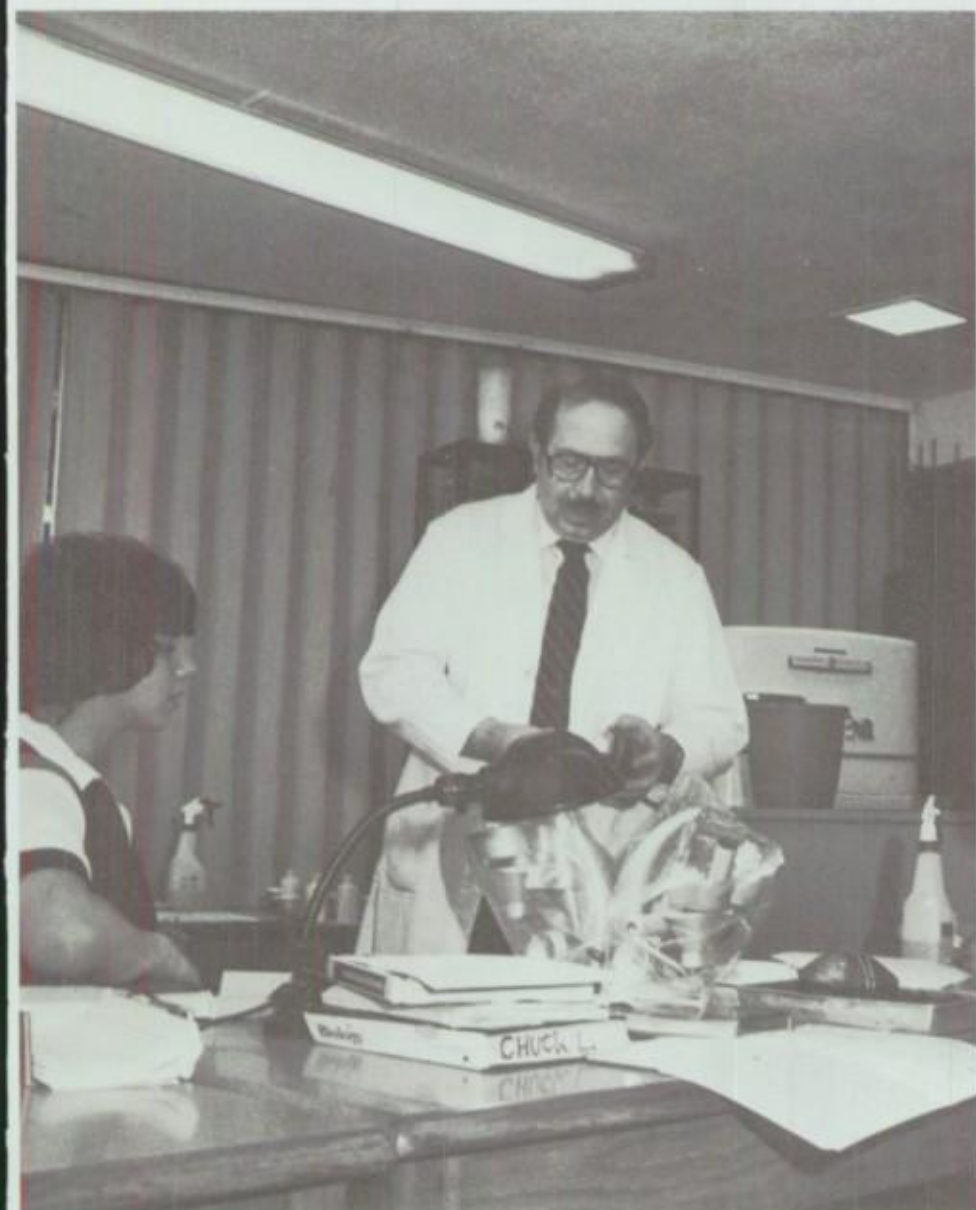

Bro. Thomas Dominick explains to Adam Tarczynski the procedures used to find the amount of lead in an unknown solution.

In a unit on Optics, Ms. Demary and her students use optical slits and discuss how they work.

Junior John Hayes solves a chemical equation that was given for homework. During a lab day, Ms. DeMary explains to Dave Yankee the use of the optical slits.

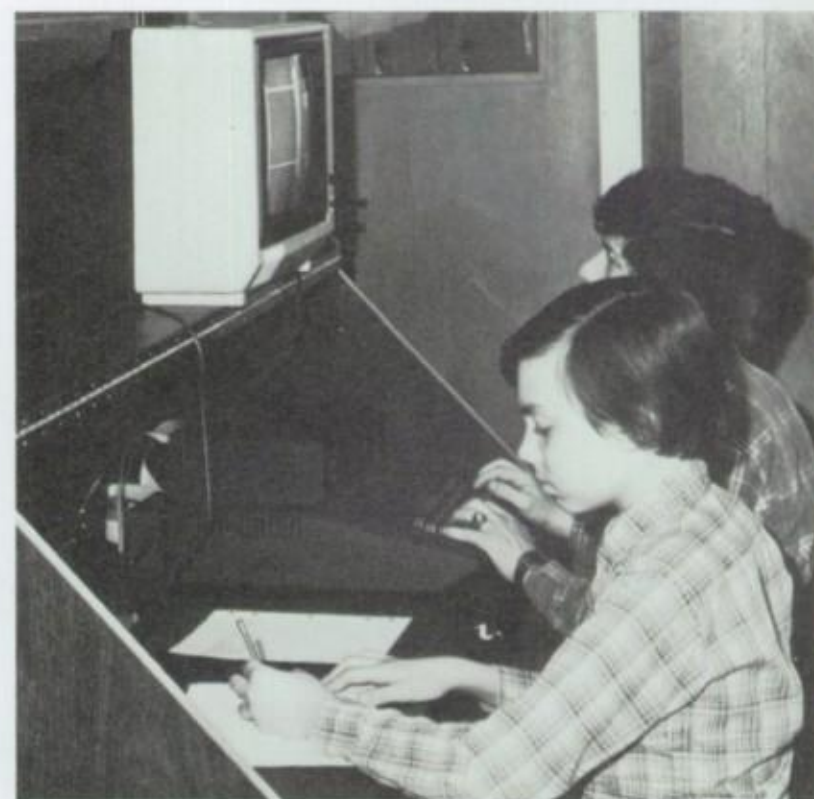

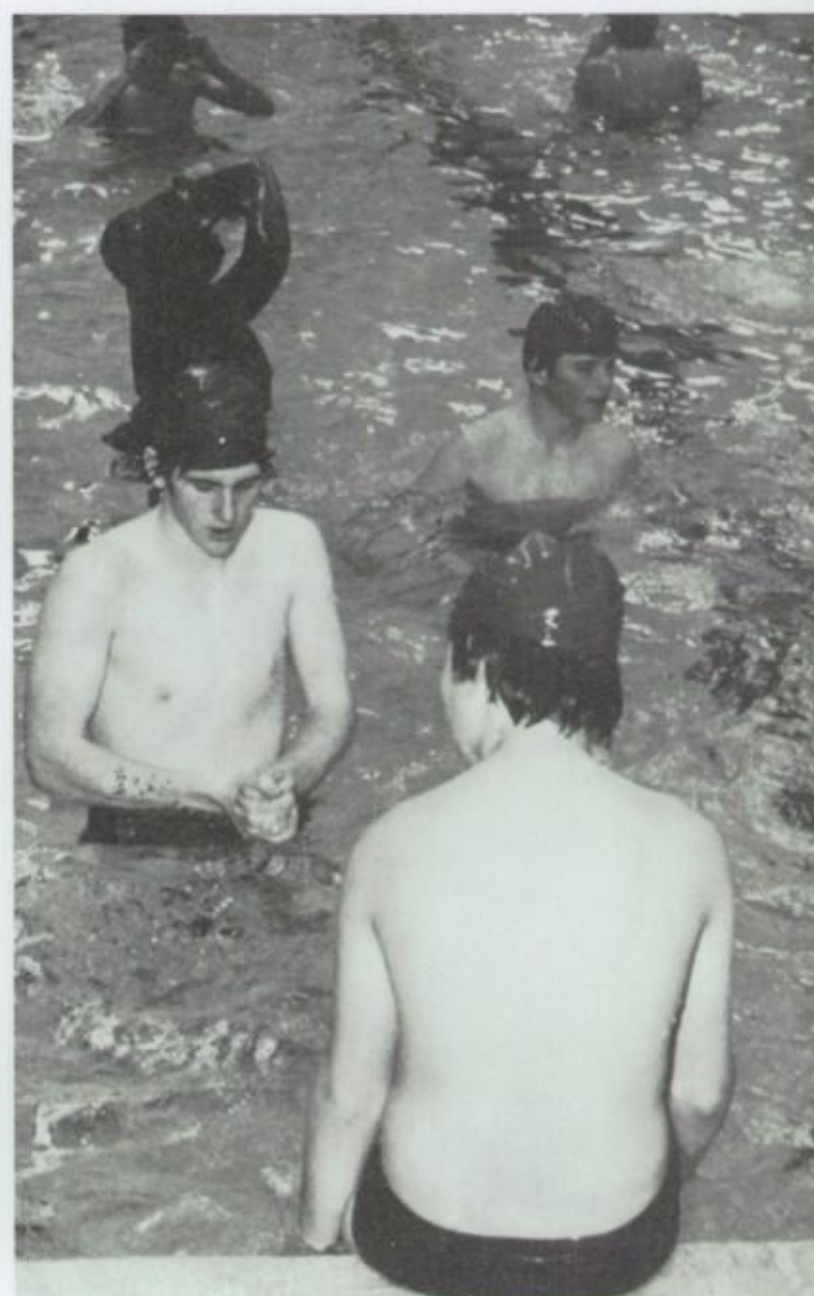

Dissection has become a very important part of Mr. Will's biology classes. To a group of students, he explains the correct way to dissect a clam. Students enjoy a game of tag football during a gym class.

Responding to a student's question, Mr. Welker emphasizes the axiom of the nervous system.

Working on a program, Jerry Young and Joe Pusateri try to find ways in which they can improve on their high resolution graphics program.

Since 1968, the swimming program has been an integral part of physical education.

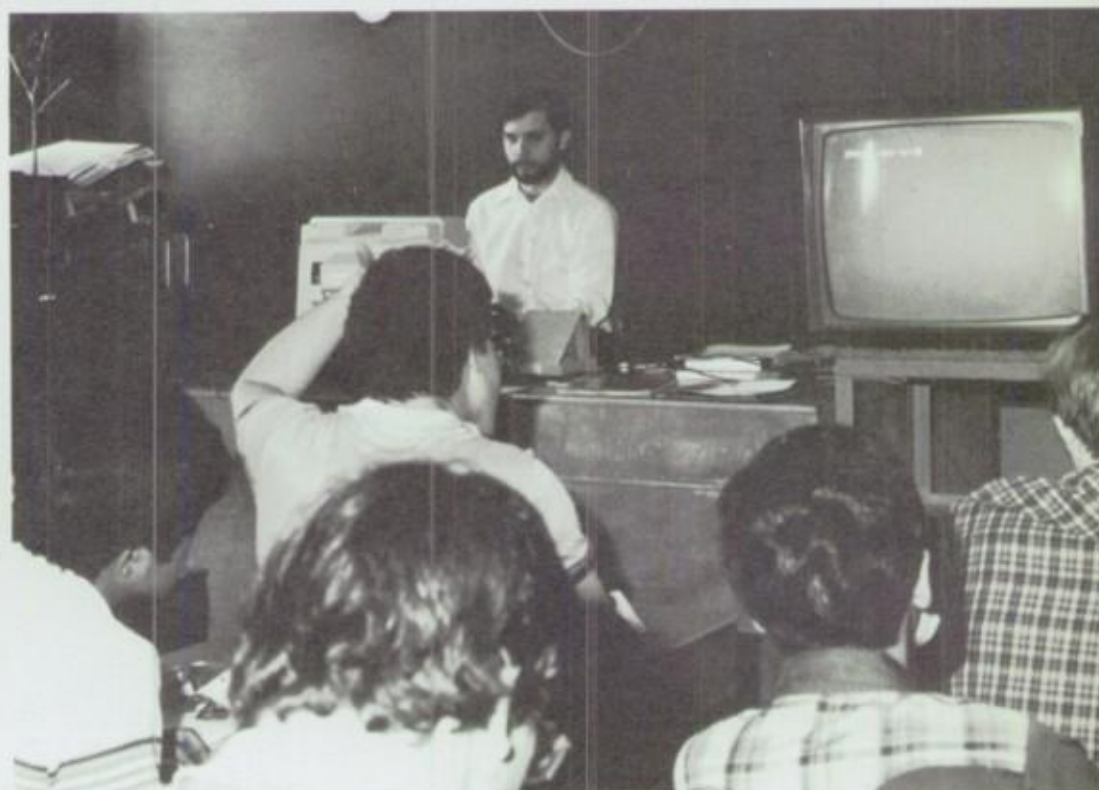

Mr. Olsen explains some of the rules for braking distance to two of his students.

As Mr. Albert types it in, a student recites his version of an external file mailing list program.

Miss Hart listens to a question asked by Finbarr Deely on cell division.

Language Teachers Use Their Classes as a

Window to the World

The language department consists of five faculty members: chairman Brother John Blease, Mrs. Buell, Mrs. Bellavia, Mrs. Schnell, and Mr. Stark. These people taught Spanish, French, or German to students, while also trying to teach the students that there is more than one way to look at the world. Besides using their voices to teach the students, they also utilized film strips, tape recordings, movies, slides, and field trips. This year German students went to the University of Chicago at Circle Campus to participate in a German contest. At Mother McAuley High School, French and Spanish students viewed two different plays presented by the National Theatre for the Performing Arts in Connecticut. Spanish students saw The Three Cornered Hat, while French students saw Cyrano de Bergerac.

All students were encouraged to take a language for several reasons. The first consideration was the great value in learning about a culture other than their own. Second, learning these other languages helps students learn English much better. In addition, very good language students could earn college credits while still in high school.

During the first year of language, teaching techniques stressed listening and speaking, while in the second year, speaking and reading became the goals. Finally, in the last two years, an in-depth pursuit of reading, writing, and speaking built towards a basic fluency in the comprehension and speaking of the target language.

At the language film festival, Joe Palermi prepares to project the first half of the movie.

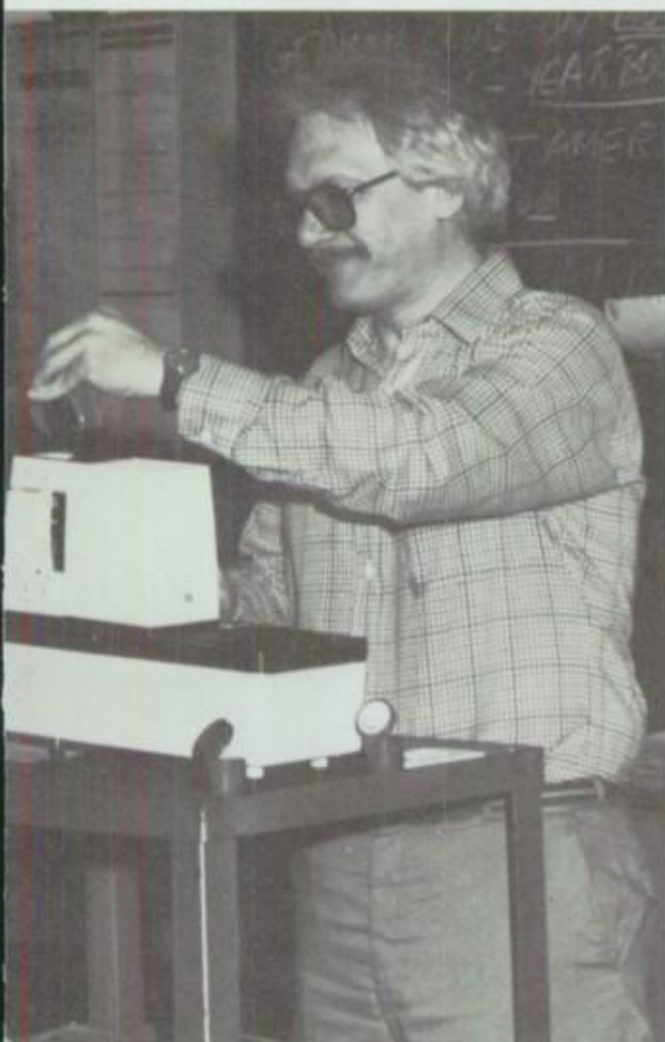

Hoping for a correct answer, Mrs. Bellavia poses a question about Spanish customs.

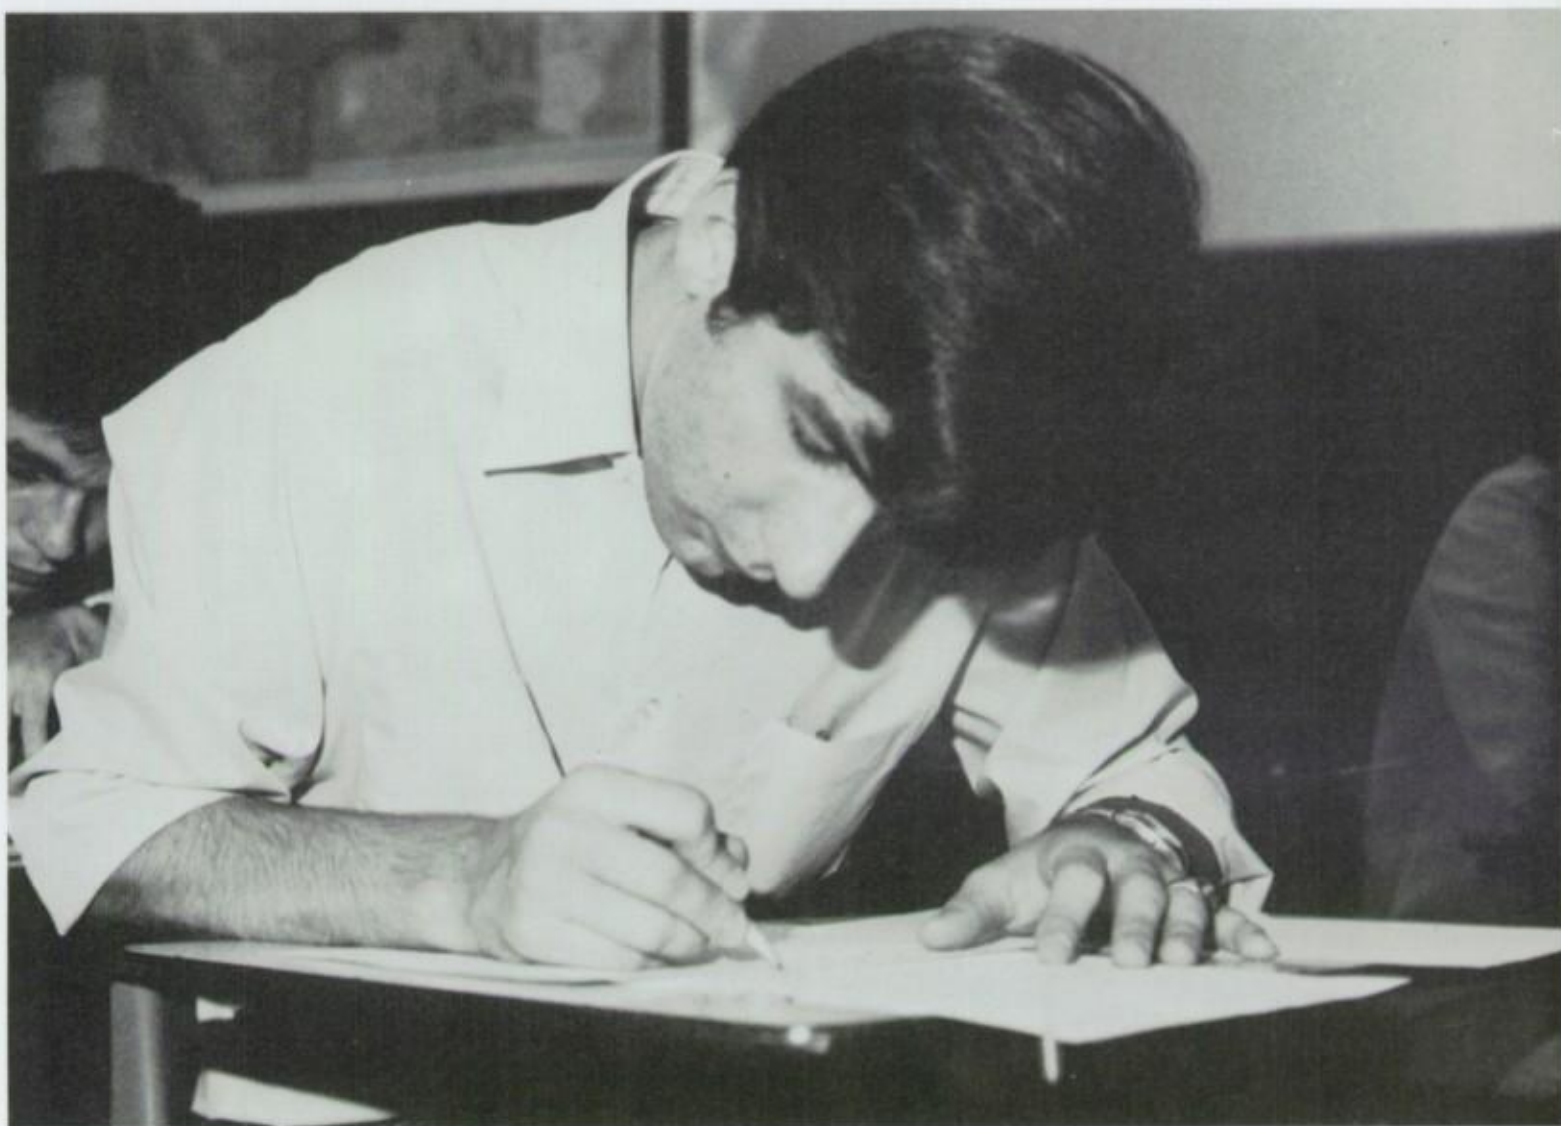

Before class, Mrs. Schnell discusses the idiomatic usage of the verb "Faire."

Using their hands in a typical European fashion, Mr. Stark and Mrs. Schnell discuss the humor of "The Tall Blond Man with One Black Shoe."

As he prepares to show a filmstrip on German culture Mr. Stark loads the projector during German class.
To answer a student's question, Br. John refers to a brochure on "Don Quixote de la Mancha."

PEOPLE

A school is made up of components: walls, rooms, and equipment, but the most important part is the one that leans against the walls while chatting, sits within the rooms while learning or goofing around, and used the equipment for its purpose; these are the people. The students, faculty, and staff are the gears that bring this building to life. They are the pieces in the puzzle of life that will help us to create memories. We are tall and thin, short and muscular, athletes and dreamers. We participate in many different activities and add our own unique talents to the daily scholastic life. Take a moment and slowly turn through the following pages, meet the real substance of our school spirit. Each of us has a part of our own school life "Down Pat."

A New Atmosphere

At their first assembly of the year, slightly nervous and excited freshmen listen as club officers describe their club activities.

Taking their turn, as all 7th period classes do in time, Mr. Horan's English class sets up for bingo Tuesday. Avoiding a tipoff from Marist, Bill Campanero goes up for the rebound.

School Shows Off Prospective Students Take An Admiring Glance at Pats

This year's future freshmen and their parents received an opportunity to tour St. Patrick High School with two open houses. The first open house was held on November 17th with a turnout of 700 and the second on December 5th with a turnout of 200. Several members of the faculty led small groups through the school and its sporting facilities. Throughout the tour, each department chairman spoke briefly about his respective department. At the end of the tour, the prospective patsmen viewed displays set up by assorted clubs in the cafeteria and main lobby.

Police Crackdown Forces A Break in a Tradition?

The Las Vegas Nights planned for the fall had to be cancelled due to problems with legality of gambling for charity. According to the police department, all gambling, except bingo, no matter where, when, or why, was illegal in the city of Chicago. Two weeks before St. Patrick was to hold the October 15th and 16th Las Vegas nights, Brother Kenneth Gillund F.S.C. received a phone call from the Chicago police department. They instructed him to cancel the two nights or the premises would be raided and Mr. Koutnik and himself would be jailed. This demand by the police department and the city enraged many schools and churches, who depend on these gambling extravaganzas as major fund raisers. It also drew attention of local media and journalists, such as Joel Daly and CHANNEL 7 WLS-TV. Mr. Daly came out to St. Pats with a crew to film an interview with Brother Kenneth and Mr. Koutnik on the matter. Later, local churches, schools, and organizations met in St. Pat's gym to protest loudly this problem-causing law that cut off major funds to most of these organizations.

A Bold Step Into a New Environment

About 320 nervous eight-graders crowded into the main lobby to await instructions on finding the testing rooms for their school entrance exam held on Saturday, January 8th at 8:00. The test, proctored by twenty faculty members, lasted until noon and included questions in math, reading, comprehension, vocabulary, and English grammar. The student who ranked first in the test received a full year scholarship, and the students ranked second through fourth received $200 scholarships.

The incoming freshmen vigorously attempt to finish their placement exams.

A Toast to Pats 7-Up and WLS Recognize a Terrific Team

One of the proudest moments of the year for the students of St. Pat's was when WLS radio and Joyce Beverages presented the St. Patrick Basketball team with the WLS team of the week award. The award is presented every week during the football and basketball season, to the high school team in Chicago which accomplished the most during that week. This year's presentation to the team was for their impressive upset victory over the powerful St. Joseph Chargers by a score of 57-42. The award was presented to the school by Mr. Bruce Blair (Vice-President of WLS), Mr. Brant Miller (disc-jockey on WLS), and by a representative of the Joyce Beverage/7up Company; accepting the award for the school and team was Mr. Max Kurland and Br. Kenneth Gillund before the entire student body. Br. Kenneth proceeded the presentation with a speech which was stopped with boisterous rounds of applause by the students.

Mr. Kurland seemed very happy when asked about the award and commented that he was especially happy to receive the award because it was good for the kids on the team who had worked all season. St. Patrick became the first school in the history of the award to receive it twice; the team received it two years ago.

St. Patrick Students Found Guilty of Aiding and Abetting the British Invasion

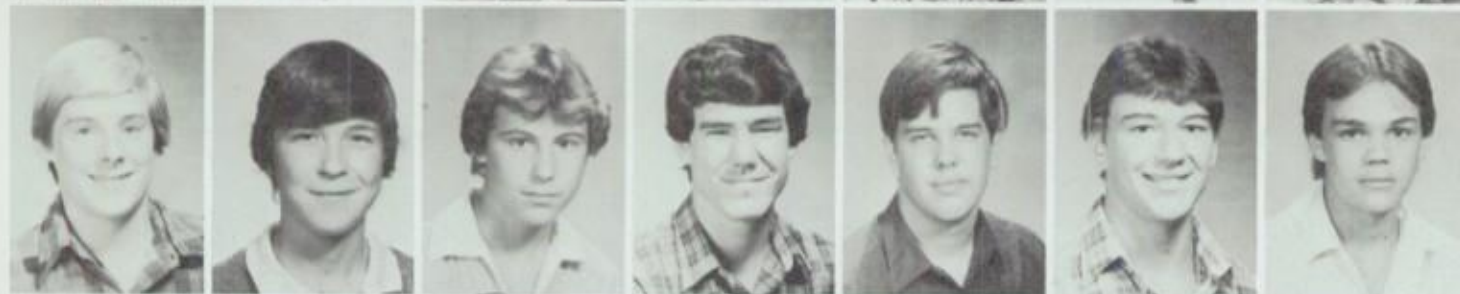

Last year, a few loyal fans of the popular P.B.S. program, Doctor Who, got together and talked about the possibilities of forming a club to pay tribute to the show. Under the guidance of Mr. Troxell, the club got on its feet with a surprising number of 24 members who were willing to join. The fans decided to call their organization the T.L.A. (Time Lords' Association) and met every Wednesday in room 106, to discuss information relating to the program. Meetings were also held in order to watch up-to-date shows that were not yet available to watch on P.B.S. They also swapped books, magazines, trivia, etc. which had become just as popular as the show itself. The T.L.A. might not have appealed to all, but devotees thought of Doctor Who as an innovative alternative to the existing science fiction fare.

Thespians Give Shakespeare an Infinite Tribute

April 23rd commemorated the birthday of the world famous William Shakespeare. The entire country, including St. Pat's, held various activities to give honor to this great man. The St. Pats Thespian Society, headed by moderator Mr. Jack Nelson, held a Shakespearean Festival from April 19-30. This celebration included many, well-organized events. Displays decorated the entire school, the most impressive was the library showcase which included a beautiful array of models, pictures and books. A special newspaper, issued on April 19th, contained news of upcoming events and was comprised of interesting articles about Shakespeare, his work and his era. A trivia contest ran throughout the two week period. However, the single, biggest event was the production of "His Infinite Works." A videotape of various soliloquies and

A grand finale, held on April 23rd, gave students the opportunity to perform their act before a live audience, followed by the initiation of six new Thespian members.

Parents Go Back to School, Follow Students' Schedules

Parents had the rare opportunity to go through their son's schedule early in the year. This annual mini-schedule day gave them a chance to meet their sons' teachers and to learn what is expected of their sons in each of his classes. The night started with a meeting in the gym, where members of the faculty talked about different aspects of the school and its curriculum. Afterwards each parent went through his son's classes in order. Each period was ten minutes, with five minutes to get to the next class. When the parents finished their "school day," they were able to go to the cafe to talk with the teachers informally.

Students Provide Poor With Delicious Christmas

The annual Christmas food drive co-ordinated by the student council and supervised by Mr. William Sienkiewicz, collected a total of 4 tons which made this years one of the most successful food drives. Members of Senior homeroom 108 led the school with an average of 18 pounds per man. The student council awarded them a plaque. Other leading homerooms included 207 from the freshman department, 309 from the sophomore department, and 304 from the junior department. All the food was collected daily in homeroom, weighed biweekly, and put in a large cage which was constructed under the supervision of Brother David Pieters. Other help came from Brother Leo Weidner, the mission collection, and 1500 pounds of food donated by Dominicks. Proceeds of the drive went to: St. Thomas of Canterbury Church, Visitation Church, Holy Family Parish, and private individuals.

New History Club Provides Students With a Supplementary Education

2nd Row: T. Scislowski, P. Stermer, R. Walzel, M. Meier, M. Dugo, M. Hallihan, R. Ernst, Mr. Renner, J. Puetz, C. Parisi, M. Yaneck, J. Kovak, D. Gaughan.

A new club, the History Club, invaded St. Pat's this year. The club, under the moderation of Mr. Dan Renner, takes the Student's knowledge of history and helps him understand it better by means of outside activities.

The club went to such places as: Cantigney (a World War I and World War II Museum) and the Chicago Historical Society. On the lighter side the club celebrated Christmas with a party and in May it had a gym night. Also the club sponsored the annual Springfield trip. Being a new club, it didn't have the organization or the membership that might be expected in the future.

Lettermen Concert a Rocking Success

Paradoxx was well received as they entertained the crowd.

Warming up the crowd, Bottoms plays in the early portion of the concert.

Of the many clubs sponsored activities held this year, probably the most successful was the concert sponsored by the Lettermen's Club. Performing was Paradoxx who had Bottoms Up as their back-up. Over 945 enthusiastic concert-goers responded to variety of tunes by the two groups. Beginning at 7:00 and ending around 11:00, this first fund-raising event provided a good financial start for the Lettermen.

Although it has not done much in its previous years, the Gamer's Club came into its own this year with a very successful tournament. During the first semester, twenty-four members and non-members competed in an Advanced Dungeons and Dragons tournament for one of three trophies awarded. Proceeds from the event went toward the prizes for upcoming tournaments. The winners were Luai Mahmud in first, David Choate in second, and Paul Lemieux in third.

Even with the main excitement in the competition, the regular Friday meetings were certainly not boring. Dungeons and Dragons was the main game but others included: Star Fleet Battles, Traveller, Ace of Aces, and Car Wars. Most of the games were role playing games, in which the players took on the physical and intellectual characteristics and skills of the adventurers they portrayed, and the Dungeon Master came up with confusing and difficult situations to challenge the powers of the various fighters, thieves, clerics and wizards involved.

As Luai Mahmud, Vice President, proposes his plan for secret entry to the castle through the fresh water supply canals, Secretary Jerry Young, Dungeon Master President John Lofton, and Moderator Mr. Witkosky listen intently to find any possible flaws in the suggestion.

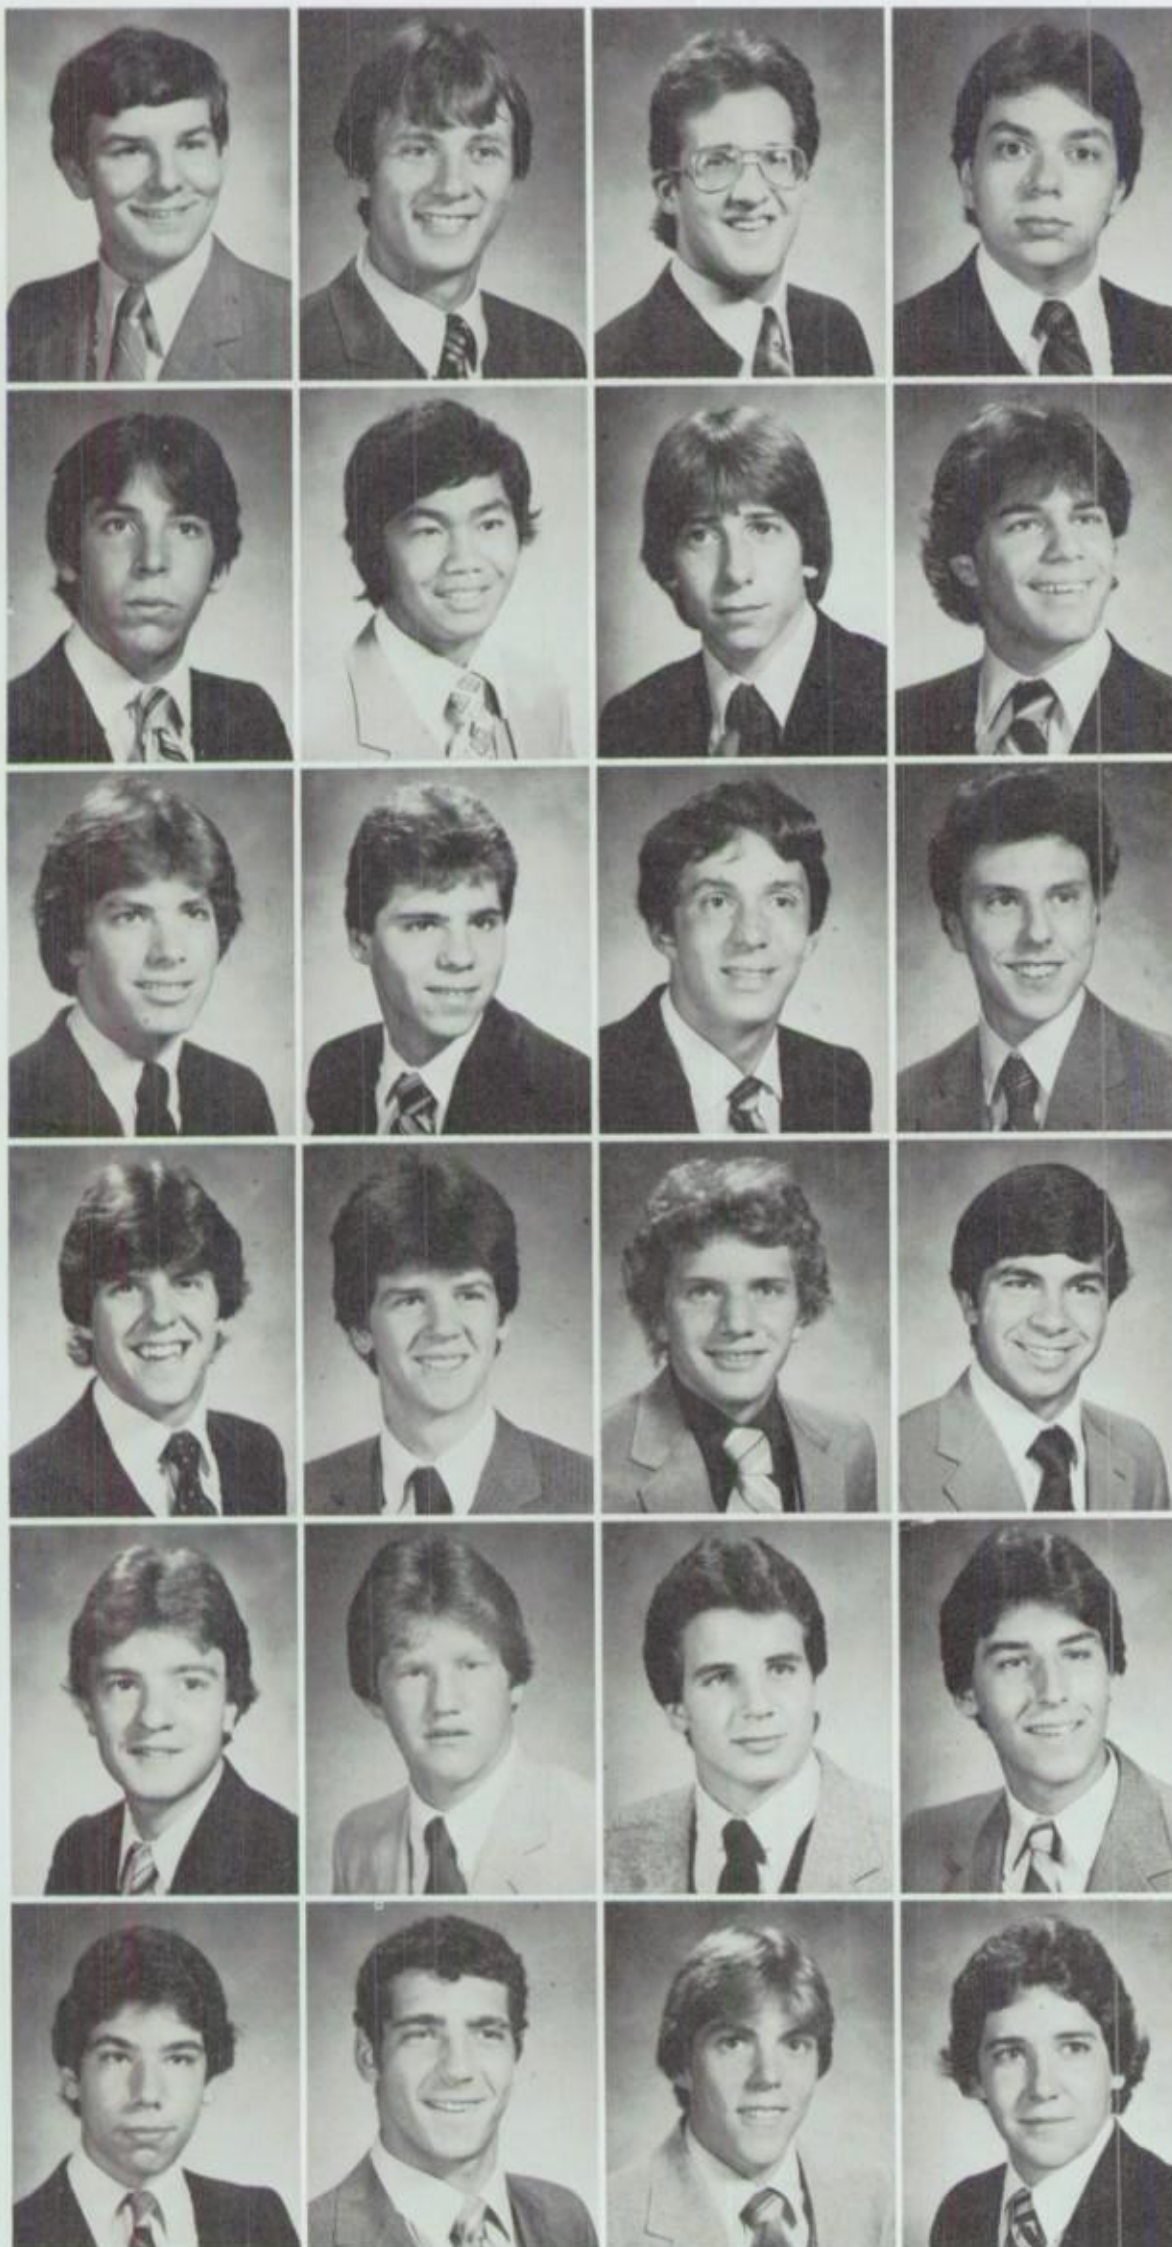

Senior Mike Magaha jots down the answers on the ASVAB test. On College Night a Loyola University representative answers Mike Boyle's questions.

Mini-Assemblies or Law Enforcement Arrest Attention

Since officers of the law have often been viewed in a negative light by some, and as a "God-send" by others, various law enforcement agencies came on November 17th from 11:00 to 1:00 to inform students about careers in their respective fields. The day was organized by Commander Daniel J. Coll of the sixteenth district and Mr. Mort Zimmerman of the sixteenth district Steering Committee. As part of the District Beat Representative program, the career exhibit included many agencies representing state, city, and federal authorities along with some colleges which had law enforcement programs.

During the Senior lunch period, Tim Reider speaks to a county policeman about opportunities in that vocation.

Upperclassmen Find That A Evening Spent Is an Education Earned

St. Pat's sponsored a Financial Aid Night on Wednesday, December 1st for all students and parents interested in learning about the many aspects of applying for and receiving financial aid for college. The guest speaker, Mr. Jack Christian, Admissions Director for Loyola University, spoke on a variety of areas such as: scholarships that one is eligible to receive, government and state grants, low interest loans and other forms of student aid. Mr. Christian also gave some instruction for filling out the Family Financial Statement (FFS) and the Financial Aid Form (FAF). One of these is necessary for receiving any form of financial aid.

Presenting some of the different scholarships available, Mr. Christian explains some of the technicalities of eligibility.

Neighboring Girls' Schools Contribute Style to Team Effort

The 1982-83 Football and Basketball teams not only presented a variety of surprises, but also introduced the new, dynamic Cheerleading Squad. The girl's new choreographer, Mrs. Willert, supervised through their training. After being accepted at the tryouts held in late spring of last year, the girls practiced weekly on Wednesdays and skillfully mastered some excellent routines.

Showing their success at St. Pat's football games, the cheerleaders then moved indoors to the basketball courts. Girls from neighboring high schools comprised the squad and their vigorous rehearsals paid off in front of all the spectators. Beauty, pride, and spirit were the key factors in the tremendous accomplishments achieved by the 1982-83 Cheerleaders.

Campus Ministry Nurtures Community Spirit

The 1982-83 school year saw the formation and development of an entirely new program designed to supplement the Religion Department through ministering to others. The Campus Ministry Department, coordinated by Br. Leo Weidner, supervised and integrated all religious activities in the school, such as retreats and masses, to provide a kind of continuity. In addition to these duties, Br. Weidner was available during the school days for vocational and religious counseling. Counseling plays an important role in ministry, whose main goal was to build a Christian community in faith. Other parts of this goal involved students working with and helping other students. Br. Leo hoped to nurture a spirit of concern within the members of the school family by contacting students who were ill or in the hospital and holding special services. Many other faculty members have participated to keep the ministry's efforts alive. Br. George Fowley organized and attended freshman and sophomore retreats while Br. Thomas Dominic administered vocational counseling on behalf of the Christian Brothers. Mr. Max Kurland operated the mission collections every Wednesday. The other involved faculty members, religion teachers Br. Ralph Heppe, Mr. Hotek, Mr. Timm, and Miss Cassin, as well as the entire Religion Department have proved very supportive.

Discussing volunteer work, Brother Leo Weidner captures the attention of his Christian Service class.

Staff Helps St. Pats

Maintain a Good Image

Without the help of two very important people, the school would not have been in operation. The two people were Mr. George Gabauer and Mr. Herman Wilkens, the maintenance engineers. Through providing such services as emptying the garbage, mowing the lawns, replacing broken windows and desks, and fixing the heating, the two kept this school from falling into a state of disrepair.

Performing one of his regular duties, Mr. Herman Wilkens mows the lawn in the east courtyard.

Near the end of the year, Mr. Wilkens drains the pool so it can be patched and painted.

Lettermen Band Together

New Club Fans Spirit

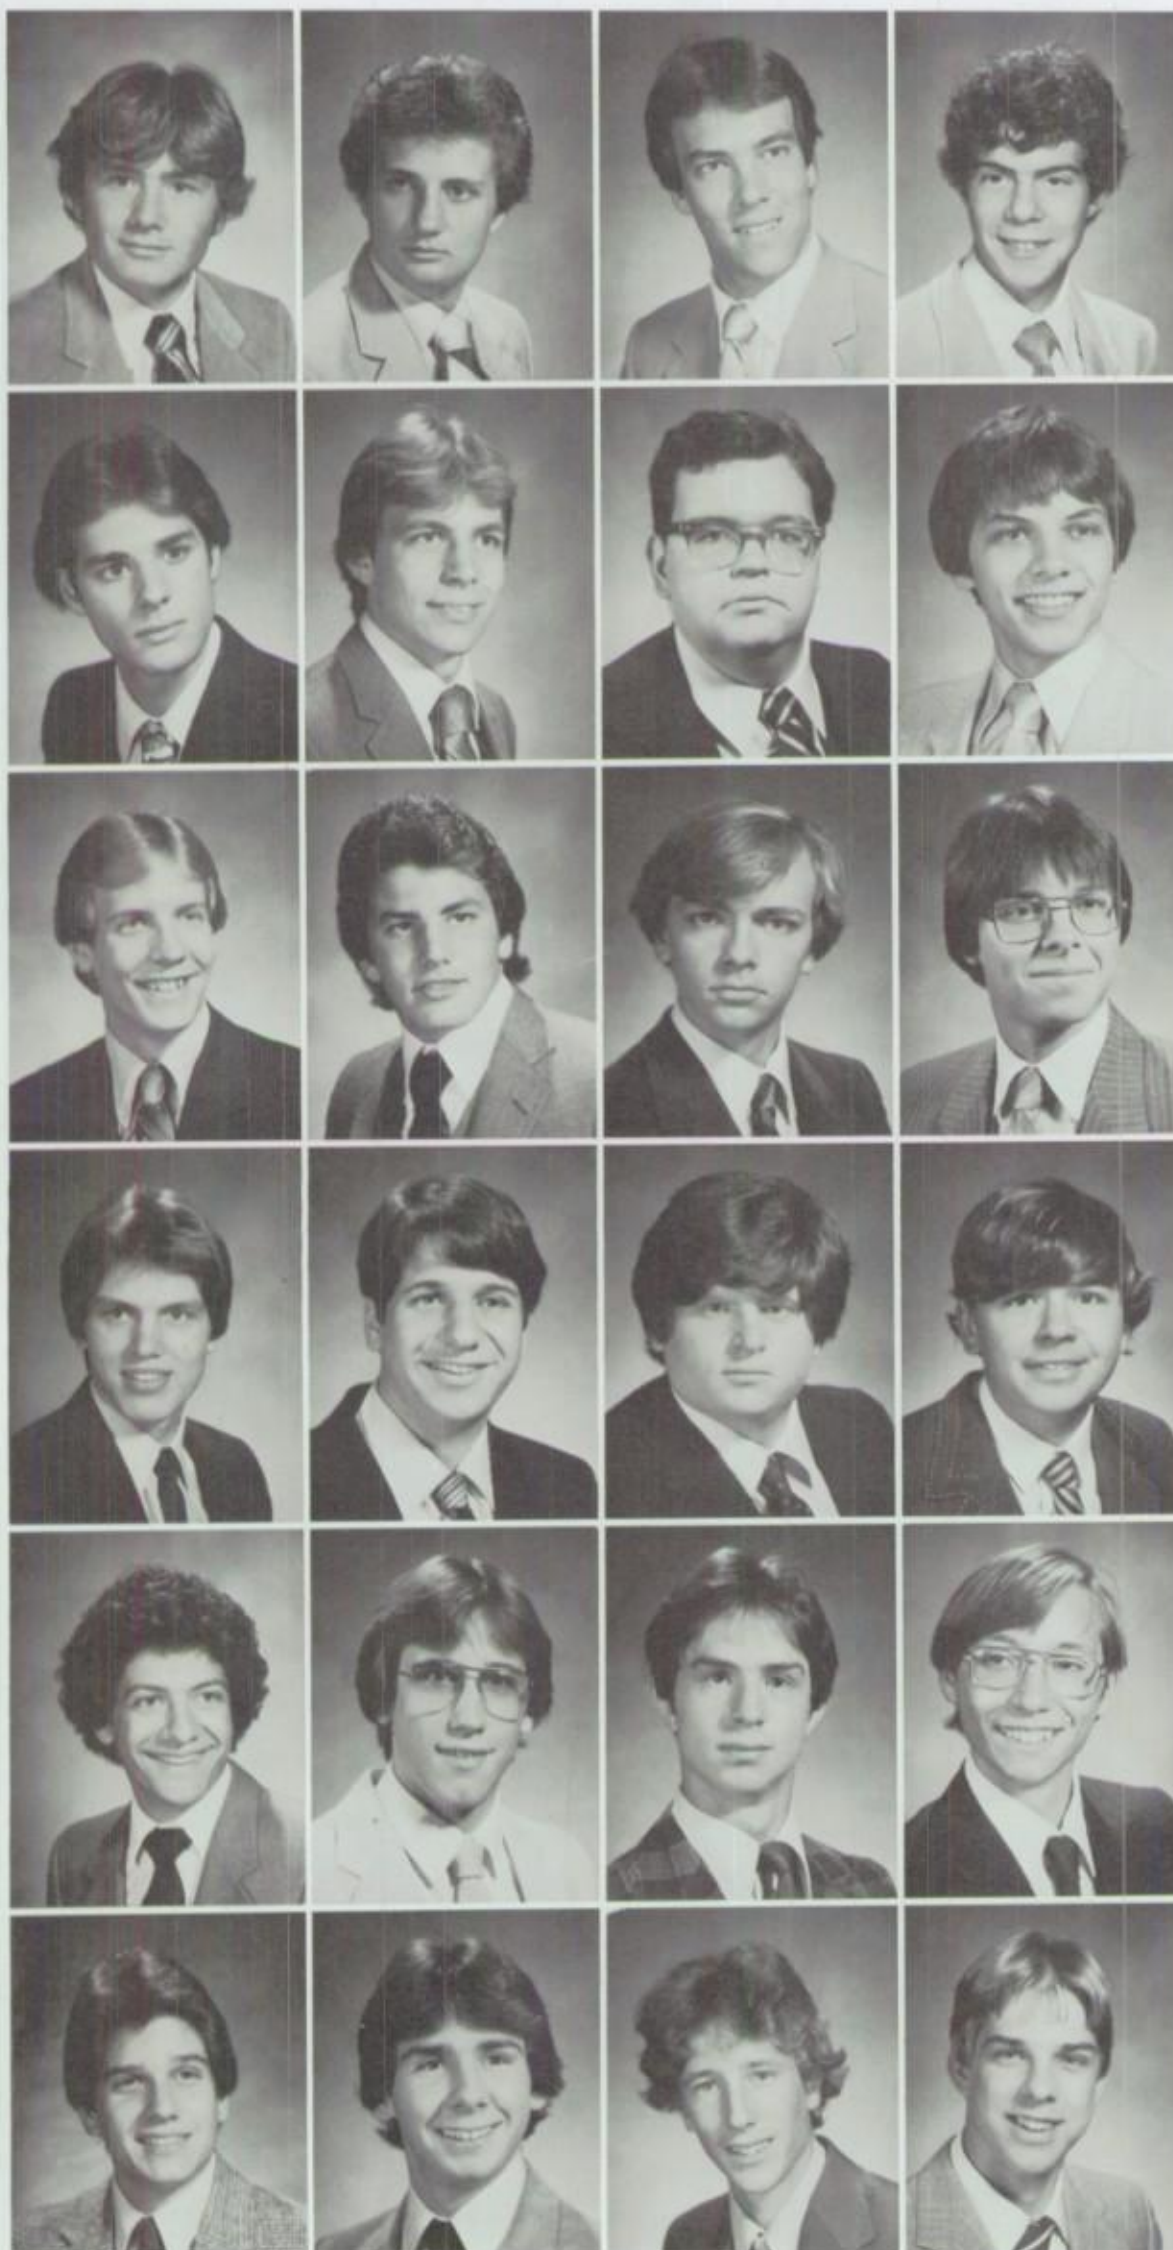

Around Thanksgiving, Mr. Hayes, Mr. Kehoe, and Mr. Presslak met with some lettermen to discuss the possibility of forming a club. Student response was good; so after drawing up a constitution and ratifying it in March, the Lettermen's Club officially started.

The club was organized to get active students involved in what other active students were doing. Through letter sweaters and even membership itself, students gained recognition for being involved in school activities. The club was set up for all who had earned a major letter in any St. Pat team or organization.

Despite being mostly in the planning stages this year, the club did manage to get some activities started this year. Although lack of immediate funds prevented a Cheap Trick's concert, the Lettermen did manage to hold another quite successful concert featuring Paradox and Bottoms Up. The initial success of this first fund-raising event gave the group a financial basis to begin to organize their activities as a spirit/service organization.

Developing an Image of Seniority

After four years of hard work at St. Pat's, the graduating class of 1983 left behind a part of their lives to continue the school's tradition. Since memories tend to fade away with time, graduates were offered the opportunity to receive senior portraits. On September 13-16, they put on their suits, polished their shoes, groomed their hair and gave their best pose to professional photographers from Root. Each senior was given a fifteen minute sitting to produce a memory that would last forever. These portraits were also used for the yearbook and included in the main lobby display, along with the past St. Patrick graduates.

In one week the entire Senior class was photographed in ten minute sessions by Root Photography.

St. Patrick Staff Feeds Both the Body and Mind

Throughout the entire year, a small specialized group of staff members worked straight through from 8:00 to 1:00 serving the student body. Aside from the task of serving the food at lunch, the cafeteria crew also had to clean up both the lunchroom and the kitchen, handle the cash registers, prepare the food, arrange new menus and come in early each morning to serve doughnuts and orange juice. Although they usually did not receive very high regards, they were among the most underrated invaluable staff members on hand.

A True Renaissance Man

Leaves a Legacy of Knowledge and Inspiration

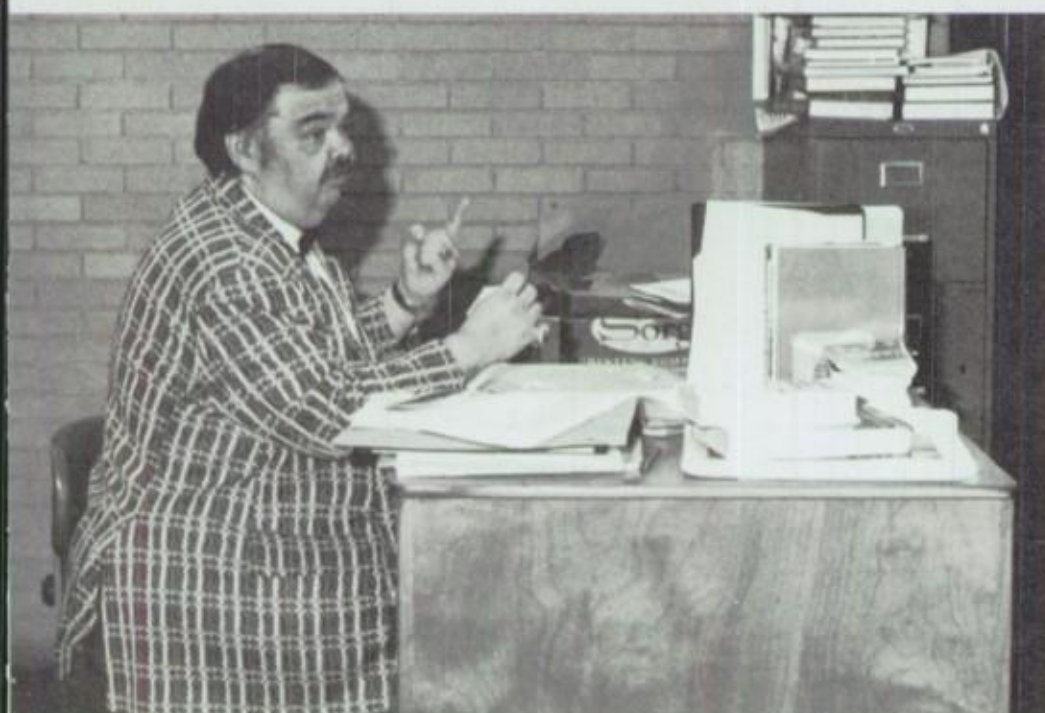

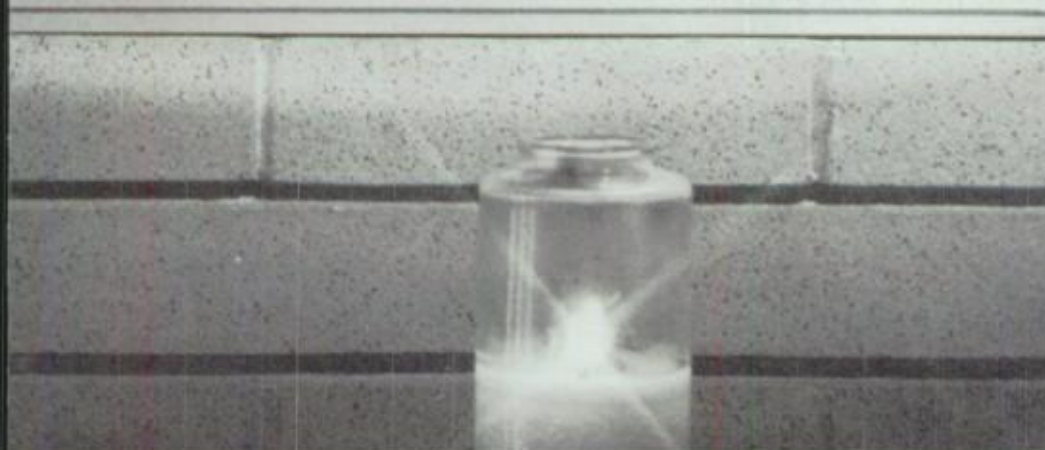

Mr. Jack P. Nelson died suddenly on Friday, May 27th, after twenty-five years in the teaching profession and twelve years at St. Pat's. We will miss him more than we can realize. He graced our faculty in many ways — as a master teacher, drama coach, organizer of cultural affairs — and friend. His golden sense of humor, sharp wit, and tremendous generosity were a leading tone setter at St. Pat's during his years of service. Mr. Nelson's achievements in the area of Shakespearean studies are especially remarkable and practically legendary among those in the St. Patrick community who are aware of them. He was also a devotee of the theatre and opera as well as a serious writer: he transplanted his deep love for the theatre in many of his students over the years; a number of his short stories and plays have been published in this country and abroad.

Yet despite these many achievements, and there are too many to even generally allude to here, we will chiefly miss Mr. Nelson himself, the man. He was, as Brother David Pieters said during Mr. Nelson's funeral service, a Renaissance man. Our school will no longer be as rich as it has been since it will be without Mr. Nelson.

"He was a man. Take him for all in all.
I shall not look upon his like again"

Hamlet, I, 11

At the Thespian Society induction, Mr. Nelson introduces John Wisowaty (who is pulling up his ankle garments).

During his Advanced Placement English class, Mr. Nelson makes a point about a Shakespeare interpretation.

*Through Long Years of Studying and Throughout Life Itself
We Are Continually*

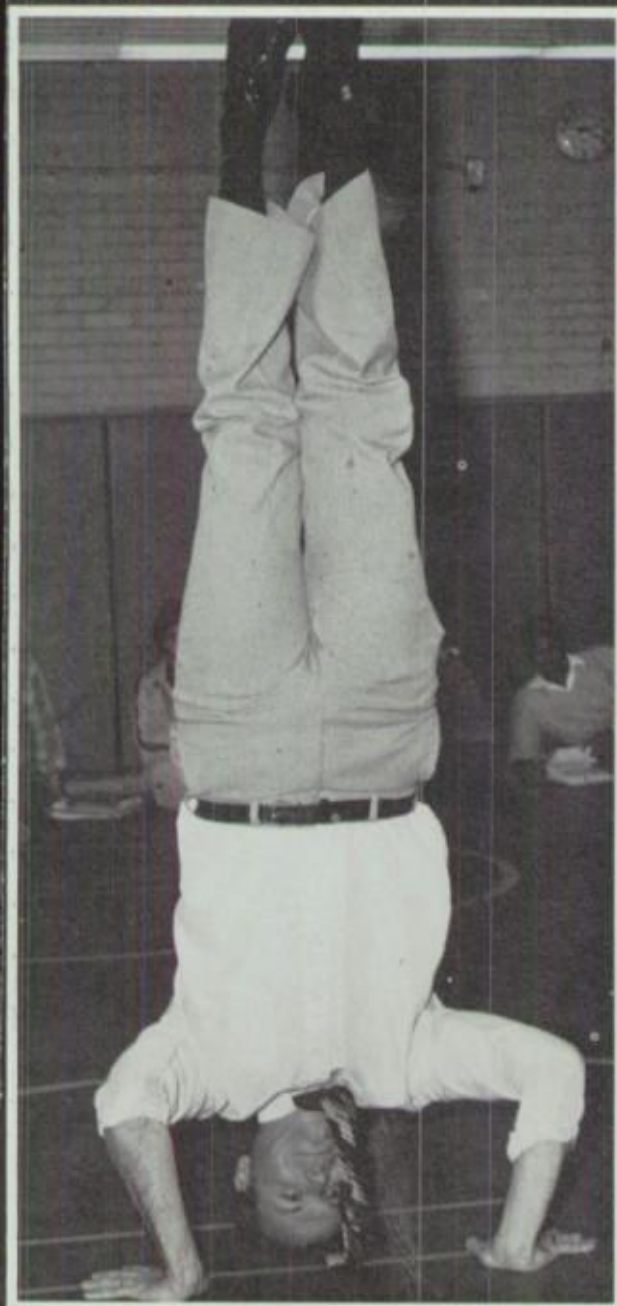

Striving for Perfection

Charlie Doyle, Carmen Navarra and James Scanlon avidly study in student service during their study hall.

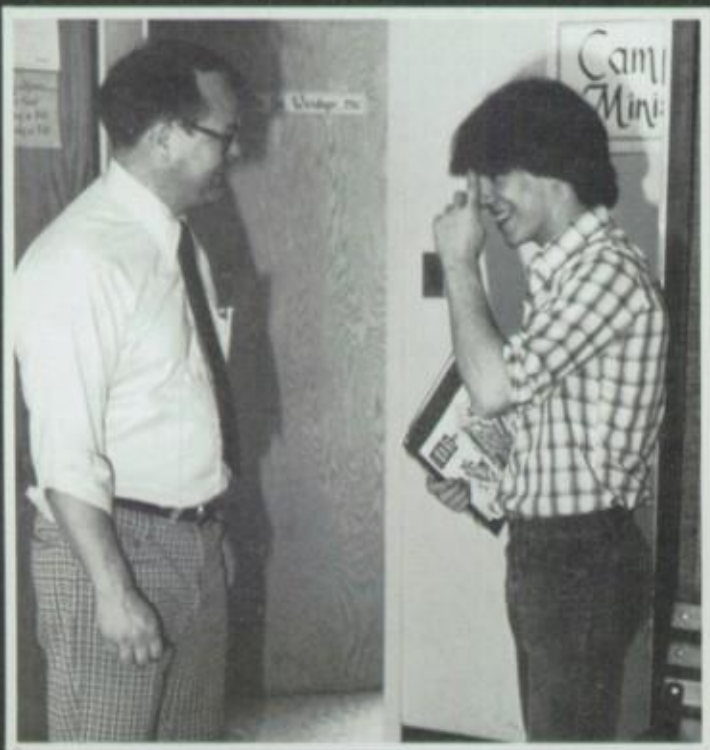

This, the closing of the book, symbolizes the end both of a year and of an experience. Although the classes are over and the doors are closed, there are memories that will linger on in the minds and hearts of the students who have attended St. Pat's. It doesn't matter if you were the most successful or the least, there are still memories to be treasured for the rest of your life. There were times when you passed a tough exam or nervously presented an oral report and received an exceptional grade. Of course, you might remember the times down in the dean's office too. No one can tell exactly why, but the years spent here seemed to go by quicker than anything you have ever gotten into.

State qualifier, Ray Clifford, surges toward the first line during an indoor meet.

At the pleading of his Honors American Government class, Mr. Renner performs his famous headstand down in the wrestling room. Mr. Presslak, Mr. Glorioso, and Mr. Kehoe discuss upcoming senior events during lunch.

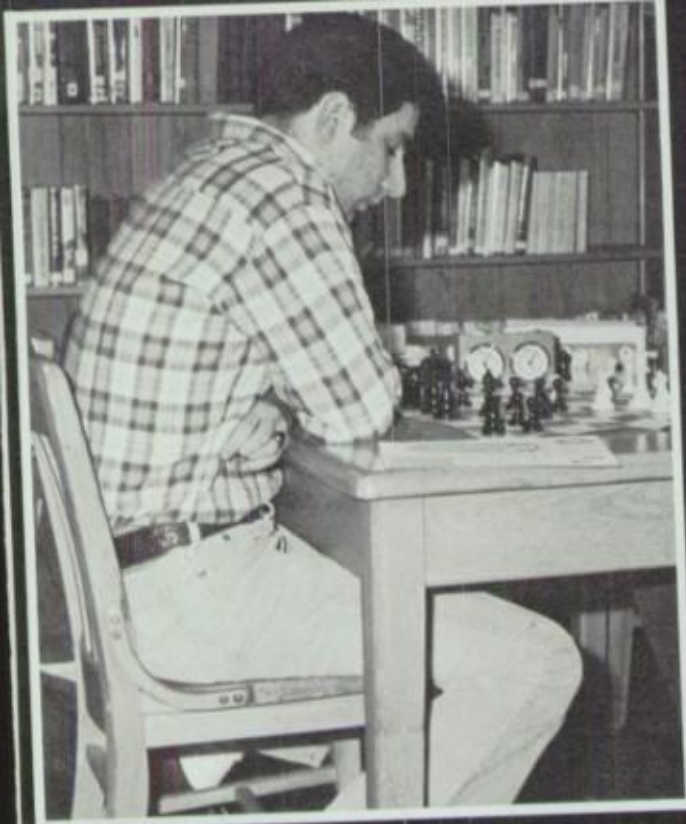

Br. Leo and Craig Dienberg exchange a joke or two right after lunch.
Coach Kurland explains defense tactics during a time-out.

All-state water polo players, Dave Lurie and Pat Murphy, were named to the 1st and 2nd state water polo teams after their fine seasons.

Dave Yankee concentrates on the chess game in a meet against Fenwick in the school library.

You dragged through eight years of grammar school and you arrived here thinking that you were in for another long haul. Even if you are a sophomore or freshman you can look back and think of the time spent. Did it really seem like a year?

This Yearbook Staff chose the theme "Down Pat" not to put Pat's down, but to say that we are in search of perfection. We are always striving for this state of perfection, even though we may not realize it. For seniors leaving St. Pat's this is not the end but the beginning, for now they will make another big stride towards making this goal. Juniors have another year to go but must keep striving for that goal and must not give up that fight. Freshmen and Sophomores who have three and two years left respectively, have a longer road towards this goal; as one man said, "So close and yet so far." What we are trying to say is "it is time to recognize our achievements and also learn from our failures and keep this driving force till the end." So for this we must say that the people of St. Patrick High School have life "Down Pat."

All-state wrestler, Charlie Doyle, stands with the other top wrestlers in his weight class following the awards presentation at the state meet.

Editor's Note/Colophon

No matter how many years we have been attending St. Pat's, each of us probably has been influenced by a variety of people.

Would we have made it without them? This year I would like to recognize some of the people who were essential to the production of this annual:

— Mr. Jim Lithgow, who put up with us and helped push us to our potential. Because of his guidance in the past two years, we have won two second place awards from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and an honorable mention for layout design from the Eastern Illinois High School Press Association.

— A special thanks to Michael Marasco and Br. John Blease who provided photographs on their own "overtime."

— Root Photographers who stole an image of each student and a few of our very special events.

— The student body without whose contributions to us and the school would make this book an impossibility.

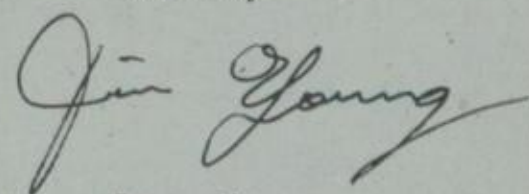

— Mr. John Harold of Taylor Publishing Company, who was a great help when problems arose.

— The Shamrock staff, especially the editorial staff who hung in there through thick and thin. One reason our editorial staff was so strong this year was because over the summer we had visited a workshop at Ball State University. While we were there, we met one very influential man who stood out from the crowd. Colonel Charles Savedge, who left us with a new way of looking at yearbook design.

— A special thanks to Judi Coolige who helped us realize we have everything "Down Pat."

The 1983 Shamrock was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. We used 70 lb. enamel paper for the first sixteen pages, and 70 lb. matte paper for pages seventeen to one hundred eighty-four. The type was Palintino and we varied the usage from 8 pt. to 60 pt. Our headline size (for the record): secondary head 18 pt., primary head 24 pt. 650 books were printed. Within the book the front flat (8 pages which are printed simultaneously on one side of a piece of paper) was printed in 4-color (full color), and the back flat was printed with sepia brown spot color. The cameras and lenses we used are as follows: Pentax MX, Canon AT-1, Olympus OM-1, Mamiyaflex C220, Mamiya 80mm Sekor f/2.8, Olympus 18mm f/3.5, Olympus 85mm f/2, Vivitar 70-210 Zoom Series 1 f/2.5, 500 mm f/8 Reflex Spiratone Mintel, Olympus 50 mm f/1.8, Pentax 50mm f/1.4 SMCP, Canon 50 mm f/1.8. The Shamrock has been a member of C.S.P.A. for two years, and recently became a member of E.I.H.S.P.A. The Shamrock staff has spent more than 1500 total hours working on this year's book, and over 5000 photographs have been taken to produce the few that were to be placed in the book.

Sincerely,

James Young
